PREFACE

I am happy to be able to issue the seventh volume of REGISTRUM ANTIQUISSIMUM less than three years after the appearance of Volume six, and hope that the three still to come will be published within the next eight years. I have once more the pleasure of thanking the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln for unrestricted access to their muniment room and for contributing to the cost of publication.

In this volume are printed the charters of the Parts of Holland and the Parts of Kesteven. There are few for the former division and one included in that section which had mystified John de Schalby himself, was not identified as relating to Fulstow in Lindsey until the text was in page proof. Similarly, one for East Stoke in Nottingham had from the early fourteenth century been incorrectly transcribed among the charters of North and South Stoke in Kesteven and this also remained undetected until in page proof.

The facsimiles in this volume are all full-size. By a fortunate chance all those charters which were selected for reproduction were small enough for this to be done in the ordinary format of the edition. The photograph of the seal of William Disney has been placed beside the charter to obviate the necessity of a folded page.

Problems of dating led to detailed examination of the succession of the archdeacons of Lincoln and of the descent of the Domesday fief of Geoffrey Alselin, the results of which are set out in two appendices. The second of these involved a great deal of work in a variety of places and was one of the causes of delay in the appearance of the volume. Though it may, I think, be claimed that it has produced some additional evidence for the history of the fief, corrected sundry errors of chronology and brought together pieces of information previously in print which were sometimes overlooked on account of their relative obscurity, it has not been possible to settle the line of descent immediately after the death of the Domesday tenant.

The charters of Holland include some of the notable Rye family of Gosberton, a descendent of whom appears as a hot-tempered offender in the time of bishop Sutton.¹ Those concerning Wrangle, Wyberton and Surfleet contain references to the dikes and other features usual in the fen and marsh areas. For Boston there are several interesting deeds though the earliest has been printed before (No. 1978).

In Kesteven there are some interesting early documents for Scopwick, Carlton le Moorland, Wellingore, Harrowby, Stainby and Hykeham. Especially noteworthy is the transcript of a writ issued by Roger of Salisbury as Justiciar, which gives the name of a hitherto unknown sheriff of Lincolnshire Hugh son of Eudo son of Spirewic and of an additional constable of the Castle. Such writs of Justiciars are relatively rare and therefore of particular interest.

It may be noted that Navenby had North, South and Middle fields; Wellingore had East, North and South fields and Thurlby by Lincoln had South, West and North fields by the early thirteenth century. It is rare in Lincolnshire to find references to three fields at this date and many villages in Lindsey remained in the two-field system until the enclosures. From No. 2121 it appears that there were at least six mills in Welbourn.

In No. 2124 there is a brief preamble on the duty of testifying to truth and to deeds performed in the presence of the chapter. In a few instances (Nos. 2122, 2149, 2151) it is specified that the grantee may give, bequeath or assign land whether in sickness or in health. The use of the term legare is curious in respect of land and recalls to mind the phraseology used in Nos. 1299 and 1439 in Vol. IV above where a grantee may make whomever he wills his heir. There is, however, no evidence that there was ever an attempt to transfer the land in any way other than assignment. Uncertainty of terminology is shown in No. 2032 (circa 1170-80) which records the sale of four marks of the homage (sic) of a man and his chattels.

Nos. 2087-8 contain interesting evidence of the importance attached to the surrender of charters on the alienation by the tenant of a tenement, with the consent of the overlords, the chapter. Because the charter had been destroyed by fire the alienator had solemnly to abjure the land in the chapter house and to seal a charter recording this act. Fortunately, it can be dated to the period 1217-9.

The charters relating to Thurlby by Lincoln and Haddington, which form part of the endowment of the chantry of Peter of Hungary (the rest of the endowment being in Hackthorn, Nos. 1157-62 in Vol. IV above) are interesting as showing the method of acquiring mortgaged land and in Professor Plucknett's view (expressed in a letter to the present writer) in one (No. 2172) "Blukevill seems to be granting what would now be called his equity".

For Screddington there is a collection of charters of the late thirteenth and early fourteenth centuries which have been included though later in date than that which was originally intended as the limit for printing. They are of interest as recording purchases made by the Common Fund and can be connected with some transactions in the extant Common Fund accounts. The Pilate family which figures in them was one of lesser rank whose members were fairly widespread over Lincolnshire and who held a variety of minor offices as capitular or royal bailiffs.

The next three volumes will contain charters relating to property held by the Chapter in the City of Lincoln both within the estate of the Common Fund and those chantries which were administered as a part of it and of those chantries for which the Chapter acted as trustees and for which there was a Comptus of the Chantries kept by the Clerk of the Common as a separate account. Many of these were endowed in the second half of the thirteenth and the first half of the fourteenth centuries and since, on the transfer of the property all the earlier title deeds were handed over, the series will be printed to the date at which they came into the possession of the canons. They provide interesting examples of increasing precision in conveyancing phraseology and cannot fail to be interesting to students of the land law and its development. They will also provide full texts of documents for a period on which there are relatively few available for study in print, a lack of which I am particularly conscious as a teacher of diplomatic. From the point of view of the history of the cathedral it will be extremely convenient to have in print a considerable number of documents of the period for which the annual accounts of the Common Fund survive. Though none of these accounts is earlier than 1291 and the series is continuous only from 1304 they throw much light on the system of administration even for an earlier period and I hope ultimately to be able to give a coherent and detailed account of the growth and working of the Common, with the related chantry estates. The Fabric Fund estates formed a separate group and though some of their original charters survive they are not transcribed into the existing cartularies and it seems reasonable to postulate the existence of a Fabric cartulary now lost.

Once more I am indebted to Sir Frank Stenton for continuous interest and help in this work : to Miss Whitelock for help with Old English and Scandinavian personal names, and to Mr. George Dixon for reading the proofs. I thank the Keeper of Western Manuscripts for allowing the deposit in the Bodleian Library of those charters which were photographed for the facsimiles made by the Oxford Press ; and the staff of The Hereford Times for their care in the printing. Once more my gratitude is due to Canon Foster for handing on to me this most pleasurable task of editing the charters.

NOTES

The REGISTRUM ANTIQUISSIMUM has supplied the plan or framework of this volume, that is, that cartulary is printed consecutively, except in the instances specified in the Preface, while charters which are not included in it are interpolated in the appropriate places. Each charter from the REGISTRUM ANTIQUISSIMUM is distinguished by having its serial number in the cartulary printed in Old English type in the middle of the page. The interpolated charters are marked by the words ADD. CHART. (Additional Charter) printed in the middle of the page. If there is an original charter the document has been printed from that text, and if there is no original document the text of the REGISTRUM ANTIQUISSIMUM has been preferred to any other. To the text from which a document is printed is assigned the first place under the head of 'Texts'; and important various readings in the other texts are given under 'Var. R.'.

The text of these volumes attempts to reproduce the documents letter for letter, with all marks of accentuation. Endorsements of original charters earlier than the seventeenth century have been printed. The abbreviated Latin forms have been extended, and where there might be any doubt in regard to the form intended italics have been used. The compendium which frequently occurs at the end of a name has been retained unless it has seemed likely that an extension was contemplated, and for such extensions italics have been used. Since the use of capitals in medieval texts is arbitrary, the modern use has been adopted, a course which may serve as a guide to the sense, and also help the student more readily to catch sight of names. The punctuation of the documents, though sometime capricious, has been adhered to. Since print can never be a perfect substitute for an original document, facsimiles of some of the most important original charters are provided.

The historical year, beginning 1st January, is used throughout this edition, except that in the texts of documents, the original has been adhered to.

ADDENDA AND CORRIGENDA

VOLUME III

- p. 281, No. 942. Mr. Geoffrey Barrow points out that a case in the Curia Regis Rolls of 1198 (C.R.R., i, p. 34) probably relates to this tenement. Nicholas de Forholt and Reinburga were amerced for disseising Juliana daughter of Simon de Ardenn'. The suit shows that Simon had been succeeded by his daughter and consequently the confirmation made by R. the dean of the grant to Simon and his heirs by W. the bishop must be carried back from 1203-6 to 1184. The dean would be Richard Fitz-Nigel (1184-9) and the bishop Walter of Coutances (1183-4).

VOLUME VI

- p. 11, line 10. For Aliuf read Aluif. It is suggested by Miss Ingebjorg Hjort that this is the more likely reading : there are no dots over any of the three minims in the manuscript so that this would be equally possible and may represent a form of Alviva from the O.E. Ælfgifu.
- p. 51, No. 1812. Mr. C. T. Clay points out the improbability of this grantor being the son of Jocelin of Louvain in the light of the evidence for the history of the Percy family set out in The Complete Peerage, vol. x, pp. 445-52.
- On pp. 127 and 135, for Earl of Aumale read Count of Aumale.
- On p. 127, for Earl of Brittany read Count of Brittany.
- On p. 174, last line, for 1212 read 1202.
- On p. 175, l. 31, for atiis read aliis.
- On p. 180, l. 13, for wake read Wake.
- On p. 185, l. 39, and p. 186, l. 8, for Innocent III read Innocent II.
- On p. 186, n.1, for Baiocinsis read Baiocensis.

GOSBERTON

1949. Grant by William son of Robert of Gosberton, for his own soul and that of his brother Robert de Rye, to the church of Lincoln, of a rent of twelvecence from the toft and land which Walter Punel holds of him in Gosberton. (Before 1200.)

Omnibus sancte matris ecclesie filiis ad quos presens scriptum peruenierit . Willelmus filius Roberti de Gosberchirke¹ salutem . Sciatis me dedisse ⁊ concessisse deo ⁊ capitulo beate Marie Linc' ecclesie redditum . xij² . denariorum de tofto ⁊ terra Marginalia in A: 'Gosberdechirch' (by Q). Heading: Hoiland (by Q).

Texts: MS—Orig. dij/71/2/6. A. The first two words are in the hand of Q and the rest of the charter in that of Q2.

Var. R.: ¹ Gosberchirch A. ² duodecim A. ³ Gosberchirche A. ⁴ Rye A.

Note: Rannulf de Rye apparently died before Bishop Hugh I (16th Nov. 1200) as at Michaelmas 1202 Thomas of Moulton accounted for eighty marks of a fine he had made with H., bishop of Lincoln, to have custody, of the land and heir of Rannulf and to marry his (Thomas of Moulton's) daughter to Thomas the heir of Rannulf. (P.R.S., N.S., 15, p. 231.) He seems to have been alive in 1198 when William son of Ralf of Wyham rendered twenty two shillings for record of a suit in the court of the bishop against Rannulf of Gosberton (P.R.S., N.S. 9, p. 46).

For the Rye family see E.Y.C. vol. v, Honour of Richmond, vol. ii, pp. 332-4. The grantor of the present charter and the brother Robert for whom he makes the gift are additions to the members of the family there mentioned.

This charter is attached to No. 1949 by an original parchment twist.

Var. R.: ¹ Rij A. ² Cunesdich A. Cunesdich' R. ³ Gosberkirk' R. ⁴ abutt-assent A. ⁵ Cunesdich' R. ⁶⁻⁸ Wiccebald A., blank in R. ⁷ Nicolao A. ⁸ fratre A. ⁹ Henrici A.

Note: Philip de Rye had obtained the lands of his brother Ranulf in Gosberton before 1210 (Final Concords, i, p. 106) though not before 1206 when his nephew Thomas was still alive (Rot. de Oblatis et finibus temp. regis Johannis, p. 370). He was dead by 1226 (no. 640 in vol. ii above and Final Concords, i, p. 218). For a covenant by Philip concerning the church of Gosberton see vol. ii no. 368 above. The witness Lambert son of William the parson in the present charter may be identical with Lambert nepote meo in no. 368. William the parson seems to be included with the brothers of Rannulf in no. 1952 below. John, Philip's nepos, was possibly the son of Gilbert de Rye, as he was certainly not the son either of Rannulf or John. He is probably the John de Rye who in 1253 was party to a final concord in which he is stated to be the heir of Robert, Rannulf and Thomas de Rye (L.R.S., xvii, p. 104).

1951. Grant by W. Passemer, to the church of Lincoln, of three acres of land in Quadring for the souls of his father and mother and of Constance countess [of Brittany]. (Circa 1200.)

Note: William Passemer was party to a suit in 1202 (L.R.S., xxii, no. 401). John, dean of Sutton, was a pledge in the same year (ibid. no. 953: see also no. 1145 in vol. iv above). Eudo the provost is most frequently found as a witness circa 1200. (See p. 283 in vol. iv above.) Constance, countess of Brittany, died in 1201, but the reference to her soul cannot be taken to imply with certainty that her death had already occurred at the time the charter was made. (See E.Y.C., iv, Honour of Richmond, i, pp. xxvii-xxx.)

1952. Grant by Rannulf son of Robert de Rye to the church of Lincoln and the Common, of a bushel of salt at the hand of Siward Snatel in Quadring on the feast of St. Mary in September

(Nativity of the B.V.M.). If Siward Snatel or his heirs should default in payment Rannulf and his heirs will make the loss good. (Before 1200.)

Note : For the Rye family see note to no. 1949 above. William the parson of Gosherton and John Bude both witness a grant of Rannulf de Rye to Catley, with Philip and John de Rye, c. 1200 (L.R.S., xviii, p. 88). Lambert of Hibtoft was dead by 1202 when Bartholomew of Moulton rendered account of a hundred marks for the wardship of his land and heir and the marriage of his widow. (P.R.S., N.S. 15, p. 231.)

WRANGLE

1953. Grant by Alan the falconer of Wrangle, with the consent of Agnes his wife and his heirs, to the church of Lincoln and the Common, of a croft in Wrangle with the dikes surrounding the croft. (Late twelfth century.)

Note : Alan the falconer was dead by 1206 when his wife Agnes was suing for dower (L.R.S. xxii, nos. 1503-4). It is probable that the second suit refers to this land as the tenant Gilbert said he had the land of the canons of Lincoln. The following charter is probably also concerned with this land as Cecilia, daughter of Gilbert, vouched the dean and chapter to warranty. The confirmation of this gift by Simon le Bret is witnessed by Richard de Hardres, provost of the cathedral, who held office probably before 1200. (See vol. iv above, p. 283.)

1954. Final concord made between Simon le Bret and Cecilia daughter of Gilbert concerning a messuage in Wrangle. Cecilia vouched the dean and chapter to warrant the land, which they did. Simon recognised the right of the church of Lincoln in the land and quitclaimed it to the dean and chapter and to Cecilia and her heirs for ever. For this recognition and quitclaim the dean gave Simon a mark of silver. (25th June 1219.)

Note : Reginald of Benington witnesses a charter of Reiner of Waxham in the late twelfth century (L.R.S., xviii, p. 109). He owed two shillings in the tallage of the Countess of Brittany in 1200 (P.R.S., N.S. 12, p. 90). Baldric the priest witnesses a charter relating to Leake, late Henry II (Danclaw Charters, p. 385). Richard son of Bine occurs frequently in 1202. (L.R.S., xxii, nos. 394, 961, 966, etc.) Richard Bacun and Laurence son of Richard rendered account of six shillings each in the tallage of the Countess of Brittany in 1200. Text : MS—R1905.

Note : On the Le Bret fee of the Honour of Richmond see E.Y.C., v., pp. 239–42. Simon le Bret the elder was still alive in 1199 (C.R.R., i, p. 451) and it is probable that he was alive in 1206 when the Pipe Roll which records various debts and accounts of Simon Brito which have occurred in many preceding years (P.R.S., N.S. 20, p. 92) notes that the debt of twenty shillings for a preeipe is owed by Simon Brito scilicet junior (ibid. p. 103). For Reginald of Benington and Baldrice the chaplain (probably identical with Baldrice the priest) see no. 1955 above. Ralf de Fen rendered account of twenty shillings for a recognition on behalf of his ward

Baldric in 1185-6 (P.R.S. 36, p. 76) and witnessed late in the twelfth century (Danelaw Charters, p. 163). He was dead before 1201 when the prioress of Stainfield claimed half the advowson of Quadring, which she had asserted, against Aubrey daughter of Ralf of Fen and Waleran of Rochford her husband, that she had had of the gift of Ralf of Fen in the time of bishop Hugh. (C.R.R., i, pp. 460-1.) Richard son of Oukes who is mentioned as having given four acres in Wrangle to Waltham Abbey before 1221 (Final Concords, i, p. 158) is probably identical with the man quitclaimed in this charter. Luke of Leake accounted for sixty marks and a palfrey owed for King Richard's ransom and was quit thereof in 1201. (P.R.S., N.S. 14, p. 19.)

Note: There were two brothers of the name of Roger as appears from this grantor's second charter below, no. 1961, in which he refers to his brother Roger. It is therefore not easy to distinguish which of the two is referred to in the contemporary records. A Roger Bacun with Christina his wife occurs in 1202 (L.R.S. xxii, no. 777). Roger Bachun witnesses late in the twelfth century (L.R.S. xviii, p. 109) and a Roger father of Benedict of Wyberton owed half a mark for disseisin in 1194 (P.R.S., N.S. 5, p. 116). This Benedict occurs frequently 1190–1210 but it is not clear if he is the son of this Roger, as a Benedict son of Roger the parson occurs in no 1962 below. Joce son of Walter Malreward is identical with Joce son of Walter of Tilton who witnesses the next charter, 1197–8. Reginald the clerk is another witness to this.

(Book of Fees, i, p. 191.) He received the land in 1190, P.R.S., N.S. i, p. 89). On John's accession he obtained a confirmation of Richard's charter and this cost him one hundred marks (P.R.S., N.S. 20, p. 103). Robert de Hardres was archdeacon of Huntingdon in 1191, was in office in 1203, but had been succeeded by 1205 (Le Neve, Fasti Ecclesiae Anglicanae, ii, p. 48). Gerard of Rothwell and Geoffrey of Deeping frequently witness charters 1190-1200, nos. 338(2), 637 and 578 (iv) in vol. ii above.

Note: Osbert of Hoffleet was a pledge for the amercement of Ernald son of Ake in 1202 (L.R.S. xxii, no. 220). Since this charter refers to land which had been Osbert's and had come to Alan as his reasonable share it may be assumed that the date is after Osbert's death. Conan and Walter frequently witness 1210-1220 (e.g. nos. 1109, 1110, 1158, 1372-3 in vol. iv above). John son of Jordan was a pledge in the same suit as Osbert. Robert Grelley was holding the vill of Swineshead in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 194). He was a minor aged eleven in 1185 (Rotuli de dominabus, p. 4).

Note: A Katherine of Fishtoft probably identical with this grantor essoined herself in a plea of land 1208-9 (L.R.S. xxii, no. 1556). She may also be the Katherine who was party to a fine relating to four acres of land in Fishtoft in 1226 (Final Concords, i, p. 197). William of Huntingfield held two and three quarter knights fees of the Honour of Craon in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 195): in 1242 when Roger of Huntingfield held them they were stated to be in Fishtoft and Frampton (ibid., ii, p. 1002). William went on Crusade in 1219 (Rot. Litt. Claus. p. 393) and died before 25th Jan., 1221 (Excerpta e rotulis finium, vol. i, p. 60). Ralf of Boston occurs 1202 (L.R.S. xxii, no. 1073). Robert of Fen was appealed of breaking the King's peace in 1202 but the appeal was not pursued (ibid. nos. 952, 962). He was a pledge in 1206 (ibid., nos. 1515-6). I, pp. 1-56, that I was able to identify it as belonging to Fulstow. The places names other than Casteller, appear in Haiwarde's map of Fulstow, 1595, quoted by her. Hugh of Boddington quit-claimed land in Fulstow of the Chester fee in 1166-7 (ibid. charter no. 3). Ralf de Bolebek was enfeoffed by Picot de Lascelles of land there in 1166-75, the charter being witnessed by Hugh de Halai (ibid. no 4). 1980. Grant by John son of Roger the tanner of Boston, to the dean and chapter of Lincoln, of all that plot of land in Boston which John had of the gift of Alexander the clerk of Boston : which plot measured at its eastern end twenty two royal ells and one foot and at its western end sixteen royal ells less one foot, and in length sixty three royal ells. The dean and chapter shall have liberty to sell or assign it as they will and shall have free exit and entry with horses and all vehicles from the main channel of the river to the end of the plot between the land of Philip Lestrangle and that formerly of Lambert of Bicker. For this the dean and chapter shall pay a yearly rent to Roger and his heirs : should the latter at any time fail in the payment of rent to the chief lord of the fee the dean and chapter shall pay the rent to the chief lord to their own complete acquittance. (1267-74.)

John of Willoughby was instituted parson of half the church of Wigtoft by the bishop at Fishtoft the Sunday after Ascension Day anno fere revoluto post reversionem domini episcopi a concilio generali in Angliam (L.R.S. iii, pp. 11-12). This was most probably 27th May 1218 rather than 7th May 1217 as Hugh was not in England in May 1217 (D.N.B.).

Roger of Caen was instituted to the whole church of Wigtoft in the eighteenth year of Bishop Hugh II, 1226-7 (L.R.S. ix, p. 152).

Note: Eda the widow gave land in Canwick to Kirkstead to which charter Gilbert, prior (of the hospital of St. Sepulchre) of Lincoln, who occurs 1202 (Final Concords, i, p. 32) but had been succeeded by William before 25th November 1218 (ibid., p. 133), is a witness. The grant to Kirkstead is in the Kirkstead cartulary. (B.M. Cotton MS. Vesp. E. xviii f. 51^v).

Hugh Grapin appealed Toli of insulting him and robbing him in his own house in 1200 (C.R.R. i, p. 293) but was in mercy for a false claim against Toli son of Bunfare (sic) for burglary in his house at Canwick in 1202 (L.R.S. xxii, no. 993).

William of Bracebridge owed half a mark at Michaelmas 1195 for not having in court one for whom he was surety (P.R. 7 R.L., P.R.S., N.S., 6, p. 170).

Note: Martin Martel was the son of William Martel who held a knight's fee in chief in Canwick in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 177). Martin was a minor 1226-8 (ibid. p. 360). In 1242 he was holding one fee in chief and some land of the constable of the Honour of Chester in Canwick (ibid., ii, p. 1041). He died shortly before 8th February 1283 (Cal. Fine Rolls, i, p. 180). Richard son of William, probably to be identified with the second witness, was holding half a knight's fee in Bracebridge and Canwick in 1242 (Book of Fees, ii, p. 1041). Ralf of Bracebridge was the son and heir of William of Bracebridge. The latter levied a fine with Master Gilbert de Tywe on 7th June 1231 by which he settled on Ralf the manor of Bracebridge and 60 solidatae in Lincoln as well as land in Warwickshire. If Ralf should die before his wife Eva the latter was to hold the land in dower (Final Concords, i, pp. 351-2). On 5th May 1240 William levied a fine with the Master of the hospital of the Holy Sepulchre, Lincoln, concerning 66 acres of land and 2 acres and half a rood of meadow in Bracebridge. Ralf as son and heir was present and consented (ibid., pp. 316-7). Richard Haye was a juror for Langoe Wapentake in 1242 (Book of Fees, ii, p. 1041). Sara widow of Richard Haye of Canwick granted a toft with buildings which was part of her marriage portion to Kirkstead before Ascension Day 1251 (B.M. Cotton MS. Vesp. E. xviii f. 66d) and the grant was confirmed by William her son (ibid., f. 66). Members of the Hayrun family granted land to Kirkstead (ibid., ff. 57, 63d) and they occur as witnesses and as holders of land in several of the charters in the Canwick section.

Var. R. : ¹ sic : nos, presumably omitted.

Note : The reference to the lesser seal of the chapter is interesting. It is presumably the seal ad causas. A lesser seal was certainly in existence in the early fourteenth century when reference is made in the accounts to its repair and, in the statement of duties of the Provost of the Common, the cotidianum sigillum for daily business is referred to. Unfortunately the parties to the charter have not been identifiable.

Note : Roger de Rolveston became dean in 1195. W. the sub-dean may be either William of Blois who ceased to hold that office on becoming precentor in 1196, or William de Bramfeld 1198-1205.

William de Aincurt, John de Beregates and Philip of Timberland all held of the Aincurt fee in 1212 (Book of Fees, vol. i, p. 178). John de Beregates married Aline widow of Robert of Thorganby and in 1218 was suing William Berner for her dower in Thorganby and Killingholme (Selden Soc. liii, nos. 465, 508, 546). He was dead by 30th September 1226 when Aline was suing for dower in Timberland (Final Concords, i, p. 191) and in Blankney (ibid., p. 206). William de Tylebroc was murdered at West Torrington on Monday after Michaelmas Day 1219. A graphic account is given in C.R.R. viii, pp. 381-3. William de Aincurt was the eldest son of Ralf the younger son of Ralf de Aincurt (see note to no. 1989 above).

Note: William de Bereville witnessed a grant to Sixle Priory 1156-62 (L.R.S. xviii, p. 3) and one to Catley Priory c. 1182 (ibid. p. 83). His gift from his fee in Kirkby Green and Scopwick to Catley was confirmed by John de Aincurt temp. Henry II (ibid. p. 78).

Siward was already a canon 1151-5 (no. 346 in vol. ii above). He witnessed in March 1163 (no. 1292 in vol. iv above—1162 is probably not tenable as the year was still ordinarily reckoned from Christmas not Lady Day). Two writs were sent by the King on his behalf, 1155-73 (nos. 190 and 191 in vol. i above). The style of the King does not contain the dei gratia and they are therefore almost certainly earlier than 1173 not 1175). Siward and Roger witness together during Robert Chesney's episcopate, 1148-68 (no. 331 in vol. ii above).

Note: Geoffrey of Deeping became precentor after 25th September 1205 when Peter des Roches, formerly precentor, was consecrated bishop of Winchester. He was in office before the death of bishop William of Blois on 10th May 1206 as he witnesses a charter of the bishop with that title (Anciens Evêchés de Bretagne, par J. Geslin de Bourgogne et A. de Barthelémy, Paris 1855–79, vol. iv, p. 58). Richard of Kyme was dead by the end of June 1206 when the king presented Philip de Lucy to his prebend, Carlton Kyme, and the Treasurership. The grantor was dead by 1218 when Dereina his widow levied a fine concerning her dower in Boultham with William, prior of the hospital of the Holy Sepulchre, Lincoln (Final Concords, i, p. 144).

ADD. CHART.

2004. Notification by Robert son of Thomas de Ponte, that he has appointed Adam son of Laurence the fisherman and William son of Roger and their heirs and assigns, his tenants, to pay in his stead to the mother church of Lincoln a rent of two shillings, of the rent of four shillings which he was wont to receive from the four fisheries in Boultham fen, with Bothehil and an acre of land round Bothehil. They shall also pay to James son of Peter de Ponte two shillings of the said rent of four shillings together with five sticks of eels in the first week of Lent, five sticks in the middle of Lent and a pound of pepper on the feast of St. John the Baptist.

Note : For the family " of the Bridge " see Hill, Medieval Lincoln, p. 395. The grantor seems to be an additional member of the family, probably son of Thomas son of Peter. The witness Robert of the Bridge was possibly his uncle and the son of Peter. James son of Peter of the Bridge was a leading citizen in 1265 (ibid. p. 399), and mayor about 1278 (ibid. p. 395). Walter Brand was mayor 1259 (ibid. p. 382).

Gilbert of the Bridge was a bailiff c. 1264 (ibid. loc. cit.) and a leading citizen in 1265 (ibid. p. 399).

2013. Agreement made between John Berner of Carlton le Moorland on the one part and Robert of Rothwell rector of Carlton le Moorland on the other, by which John Berner demised a toft and a croft with the buildings on the toft to Robert for four years from the feast of St. Martin 1235, for twenty shillings which Robert gave to John in his great necessity. At the end of that term the toft and its buildings shall revert to John and during that time he shall not sell pledge or in any way alienate it without the consent of Robert. If by defect of warranty Robert or his assigns should suffer any loss the toft shall remain in the hands of him and his assigns until they are compensated by the view of lawful men. This agreement both parties swore to keep, putting aside all appeals, privileges of crusaders and rescripts whether of Pope or King. (11th November 1235.)

Note: Robert of Rothwell, dean, was presented by Thornton Abbey in the fifteenth year of Hugh of Wells. As his institution is the first entry for that year it probably took place in late December 1223 or January 1224 (L.R.S. ix, p. 127).

He was succeeded by Simon the constable in Grosseteste's first year (L.R.S. xi, p. 3) and must therefore have resigned very shortly after this agreement was made. He may be identical with Robert, formerly dean of Boby, a deacon who was presented to Bratoft by Kymer Priory 1238-9 (L.R.S. xi, p. 30).

Note: This is probably of the same period as nos. 2014-5. Robert of Rothwell may have been described as formerly dean in 1238-9. See note to 2013 above.

From Cant. no. 450 it appears that this land was granted in 1273 to Thornton Abbey for a yearly render of thirty shillings. By no. 451 the dean and chapter bound themselves to pay twenty eight shillings yearly to Simon de Saham chaplain and his successors, celebrating mass daily for the dead, after the mass of St. Mary which was sung daily at prime in their church. The Provost of the church was to make the payment. Though it is not expressly stated that the twenty eight shillings came from the land, the money clearly is received in lieu of holding the land as Simon de Saham had been the previous tenant of the chapter in it.

Peter of Kirmond was a canon by 25th May 1219 so this is probably earlier than that.

Note: There seem to have been two people named Alexander of Navenby of whom one was a clerk, in the late twelfth century. One had a son Geoffrey whose wife's name was Einna, but who died childless and was succeeded by his three sisters (see the two following charters). The other, the clerk, had certainly two sons, Osbert and Richard (see nos. 2038 and 2040 below), and possibly a third, Simon, who is described as brother of Osbert son of Alexander but might have been only of the half blood (no. 2026 below). Alexander of Navenby had licence to concord with Walter Malet and was quit at the Exchequer in 1177 (P.R.S. 26, p. 112). This is perhaps the clerk, as Walter Malet quitclaimed to Haverholme Priory the services which Alexander of Navenby owed him in Wellngore and this was confirmed by Hugh Malet of Irby who calls him Alexander the clerk (Lincs. N. and Q., xvii, p. 26). In 1195 Alexander of Navenby owed half a mark for default (P.R.S., N.S., 6, p. 172): this might be either of them. William son of Richard levied a fine with Thomas son of Ivo concerning a bovate in Navenby, 8th June 1202 (Final Concords, i, p. 47). Gilbert son of Robert son of Martin may be identical with Gilbert son of Robert who in 1242 held a bovate in Wellngore of the heirs of Alexander the clerk of Navenby (Book of Fees, ii, p. 1045). It may be noted that not only are these two villages contiguous but the groups of houses of the two lie very near their boundaries and at the present day are almost continuous.

2020. Final concord levied in the King's Court at Lincoln between Beatrice, Fousafia and Cecily, heirs of Geoffrey of Navenby, their brother, plaintiffs, and Emma widow of Geoffrey, defendant, concerning a messuage in Navenby. Emma vouched the dean and chapter to warrant the messuage which they did. An assize of mort d' ancestor summoned to the court, recognised the messuage to be the right of the dean and chapter of the gift of Geoffrey by his charter. Beatrice, Fousafia and Cecily released and quitclaimed it to the dean and chapter and Emma in perpetuity. For this quitclaim and recognition the dean and chapter gave them twenty shillings sterling. Note: The succession to the two medieties of Navenby is by no means clear. Walter the parson occurs in 1206 (L.R.S., xxii, no. 1442). Adam son of Reginald parson of a mediety presented John of Lincoln as his vicar in 1221-2 (L.R.S., ix, p. 118). Henry Costard seems to have succeeded to Adam's mediety in 1243-4 (L.R.S., xi, p. 72) and in 1246-7 obtained the other mediety on the resignation of master W. de parua Ponte (ibid., p. 99). This latter may be the William de Parua Ponte who witnesses no. 2034 without any ecclesiastical title, or he could be the Walter of 1206. John's tenure of office must have preceded the consolidation of the two medieties and it is possible that he may have succeeded Adam in the mediety in which he had been his vicar. Hugh of Wellingore, chaplain, presumably to be identified with the second witness, was instituted vicar of Metheringham 1230-1 (L.R.S. ix, p. 194). This charter is therefore probably before that date though not very long before as the other witnesses are found in the mid-thirteenth century.

Note: John Bek was holding five carucates in Boothby Graffoe and Navenby in chief, for half a knight's fee in 1242 (Book of Fees, p. 1044).

Gilbert Flury was a juror in 1242 (ibid., loc. cit.). William of Dunston is possibly to be identified with William brother of Philip Surensis who with him was holding the fourth part of a knight's fee in Dunston of Norman Darcy in 1242 (ibid., p. 1042).
 Philip and William had married respectively Alexandria and Avice daughters of Huguelina Darcy and levied a fine with the abbot of Roche over land in Roxby of the wives' property in 1219 (Final Concords, i, p. 138).

Note: It is probable that this charter is later than no. 2035 in which Simon nepos of Doda was given as natus to the Common: in this and several other charters he is a witness and had probably been manumitted. Richard Redbure (Redbert, Redbert) and Richard son of Richard were jurors in the inquisition post mortem of Robert de Sancto Georgio in 1246 (Chancery inquisitions post mortem Series I (c. 132) File 4, no. 17). Robert Turheued witnesses a charter of Margaret of Coleby (L.R.S. xviii, p. 79) which is of a similar date, 1273, to no. 2043 below. Stephen the clerk is found in 1219 (Selden Soc., liii, no. 386).

Note: The dean is Richard de Mepham who held office only for a year or more.

The grant which this confirms is printed by Sir Frank Stenton (L.R.S. xviii, pp. 78-9). William de Bisegg' was "clerk of the provostry" in 1273 (see no. 1398 in volume iv above, in which precenture has been misread for prepositure). This is presumably the man who was usually known as clerk of the Common as he was the subordinate of the Provost of the Common.

Note: Richard de Furneaux was dead by 25th June 1219 when his wife Sara levied a fine concerning dower (see the next charter). Peter of Kirmond was a canon by 25th May that year. In 1212 it was stated that William de Basoges, Ralf de Sancto Georgio (the first witness to this charter) and Richard de Furnell held half a knight's fee in Wellingore in chief of the king, King Stephen having granted this fee to the ancestors of the present holders (Book of Fees, i, p. 222). Richard held also with Ralf de Sancto Georgio one knight's fee in chief in Bothamsall, co. Nott. (ibid., p. 223).

2048. Final concord made between Sara de Furneaux and William of Tuxford, concerning a third part of forty acres of arable land and seven acres of meadow in Wellingore: which third part Sara claims as reasonable dower of the free tenement of Richard de Furneaux formerly her husband. William vouched the dean and chapter to warranty and they came. Sara released and quit-claimed to the dean and chapter and to William and his heirs all her right and claim in the said land and meadow in virtue of dower and for this the dean gave her forty shillings sterling. 25th June, 1219.

Note: This document is of the greatest interest as one of the comparatively few surviving writs of Roger bishop of Salisbury as Justiciar. It seems to be an Exchequer writ of the kind which the Justiciar issued in his own name with the witness of the Constable and, at the time of writing of the Dialogus de Scaccario, the witness of the chief justice. (The Course of the Exchequer, edited by Charles Johnson, London, 1950, pp. 16-19; R. L. Poole, The Exchequer in the twelfth century, p. 105.) The writs specifically referred to there are those of Liberate (issue) and Compute (discharge). Robert had obtained the constablenesship and the constable's honour of Haughley by marriage with the daughter of Hugh de Montfort. (J. H. Round, Geoffrey de Mandeville, p. 326.) Roger was consecrated bishop of Salisbury on 11th August 1107 and died on 4th December 1139, but he had already fallen from power in June, 1139. The address to Hugh son of Eudo adds another name to the list of the sheriffs of Lincolnshire, which is singularly scanty for the first half of the twelfth century. The famous Osbert is found between 1093-1115 (see vol. i, nos. 5, 19, 61-2, etc.). His immediate successor appears to have been Wigot (ibid. no. 67). Rainer de Bada appears in the Pipe Roll of 31 Henry 1 and William son of Hacon circa 1130-3 (see vol. i, no. 49 above). After this there is no certain holder in any existing list until 1154 (P.R.O. Lists and Indexes, vol. ix: W. V. R. King-Fane, Lincolnshire Notes and Queries, vol. xxiv, no. 1 gives additional names chiefly from the volumes of this edition). Hugh son of Eudo had succeeded by 1115-8 to the land held in 1086 by his father Eudo son of Spirewic (L.R.S. xix, pp. 135-8, 240, 252-4, 257-8). He was a Breton in origin and is referred to as Hugh Brito in a record of the foundation of Kirkstead in the cartulary of that house (Mon., vol. v, p. 418). This Cistercian house was founded by Hugh on his property at Great Sturton in 1139 but was removed to its present site near Woodhall by licence of his son Robert (Danclaw Charters, no. 180). Robert was dead by 1185 (Rotuli de dominabus, P.R.S., 35, p. 5). His descendants were known as the family "de Tateshale". Reginald was apparently the constable of Lincoln Castle and the address to him suggests a date after the accession of Stephen. The constablenesship was hereditary in the de la Haye family from the time of Robert de la Haye who married Muriel the sister and heiress of Picot son of Colsnain. There is no certain evidence that Picot or Colsnain themselves held it and Mr. Hill suggests that Robert may have been made constable when the king allowed the bishop to transfer one third of his knights to the new castle of Newark, sometime between 1123 and 1133 (Medieval Lincoln, pp. 86-8). Richard de la Haye was confirmed in his father's lands and the constablenesship in 1155. (J. H. Round, Ancient Charters, P.R.S. 10, p. 58). It is a reasonable assumption that the de la Hayes were dispossessed in the anarchy (see J. W. F. Hill, Lincoln Castle: the constables and the guard, in Ass. Arch. Rep., vol. xl, pp. 1-14). Reginald is presumably an interloper. The probable date is therefore between the accession of Stephen in December, 1135, and the fall of the bishop in June 1139.

There seems to be no surviving king's charter to which this writ refers and consequently no means of identifying the village where the land outside Lincoln lay. As in the cartulary the writ is placed between two charters concerning Wellingore, the second of which is followed by the second text of the present writ, it has been left with the Wellingore series in this edition.

Note : William Disney was the son of Robert son of Turketin and was present in the chapter house at Lincoln when his father granted land with the chapel of St. James thereon, between Norton Disney and Bassingham to Newhouse, c. 1150 (Danelaw Charters, p. 331). He granted the homages of David and Robert sons of Gladwin of Stapleford to Sixle late in the twelfth century (L.R.S. xviii, p. 34). Richard of Navenby in 1174 rendered account of 43.8d given that he might hold a carucate of land for his life according to the tenor of the charter of King Henry (P.R.S., 21, p. 99). He was quit the following year (P.R.S., 22, p. 147) and owed a mark for false claim in 1176 (P.R.S., 25, p. 83). William the priest of Wellingore witnesses two charters dated before 1187 (Danelaw Charters, pp. 156, 161). The charter is early by its appearance and lacks a clause of warranty.

Note: William Curzon was sheriff of Lincolnshire in 1245: no other person is found in office until 1251 (P.R.O., Lists and Indexes, vol. ix). Richard the rector of Toýnton is probably Richard of Washingborough instituted 27th May 1238 (L.R.S. xi, p. 23). If the third witness is Richard the father of Hugh the charter cannot be later than December 1245 when Richard was dead (see note to no. 2055 above).

Note : Robert de Bussei seems to have been a member of the family the head of which in 1201 was holding three knight's fees of the bishop (Rotuli de oblatiis et de finibus, p. 153). Two of the fees were in Hougham (Book of Fees, i, p. 186). An earlier member of the family, Robert, possibly his father, had given tithe before 1148 in Hougham (not Hough on the Hill as given in vol. ii, no. 333 above). Robert de Bussei was impleaded by William son of Roland for two and a half acres of meadow in Waddingham in 1203 (L.R.S. xxii, no. 1263 and C.R.R., ii, p. 175). The land was seized by the sheriff through default of Robert (ibid. no. 1299). In 1206 William of Stixwold and Maud his wife impleaded him for a tenement in Lincoln but withdrew their plea (ibid. no. 1439). Robert was one of the pledges of Thomas de Moulton when the latter became sheriff in 1206 (Rotuli de oblatiis et de finibus, p. 70).

On 11th November 1208 Robert son of Robert de Bussei levied a fine with Walter son of Rannulf by which the latter acknowledged a toft and three bovates in Hougham to be of Robert's inheritance (Final Concords, i, p. 83). There seems to be no reference to him later and if he were the son of the earlier Robert he evidently died about the same time as his brother Hugh for whose lands Lambert his son owed relief in 1209 (P.R.S., N.S., p. 75).

was certainly sacrist in 1214 but may have held office earlier (see vol. iv, p. 281). Peter of Kimond had become a canon by 25th May 1219 (see vol. ii, no. 375 above) though he did not receive the prebend of Decem Librarum until 1225 (ibid., no. 352).

Note: Robert of Harrowby who married Alexandria daughter of Ralf Bernard was alive in 1172 when his son William of Westby made a grant in Honington to Stixwold priory with the consent of his father and mother (Danelaw Charters, pp. 284). Robert had given land there to Stixwold before 1155-60 (ibid., pp. 280-1). He had apparently died shortly after 1172 as a grant made by Alexandria after the death of Robert her husband has 1180 as its terminal date (ibid., p. 285). It appears from the recently discovered Stixwold cartulary (B.M. Add. MS. 46701, p. 116) that Robert's father's name was William of Harrowby. The younger William, described as William of Harrowby, son of Robert, had given a mill called Phalefrei to the Templars before 1185 (Templars, p. 81).

Note : The grantor is presumably that Henry, the custody of whose wife Maud and of his heirs was committed to William de Cantilupe, Maud's brother, in 1211 (Book of Fees, 57 and n.). The holding in Haydor was five carucates for the fee of one knight of Gilbert de Gaunt (ibid., p. 184). He was involved in various pleas of dower with Avice de Amundeville 1201-25 in one of which Theobald de Reneuill, to whom he granted land in no. 2072 below, was his attorney (C.R.R., ii, p. 80, iii, pp. 229, 283 and iv, p. 46). Gilbert de Lacy the parson of Hale brought an assize utrum against Alan Pilate for two bovates in Hale (ibid., iv, p. 233). By final concord levied 26th October, 1206, Alan acknowledged it belonged to the church (Final Concords, i, p. 71). Hugh de Longchamp had property in Kent which Gilbert Peche held of him in 1204 (Rotuli de oblatis et de finibus, p. 228). Geoffrey de Longchamp in 1207 gave a quarter of thirty nine marks to have a writ for recovery of debt (ibid., p. 385).

Note: Hubert son of Hubert, Hugh of Bayeux, William of Bayeux, Walter de Saint Lo (Sancto Laudo), all occur temp. Henry II (Danelaw Charters, pp. 348–9). Hugh of Bayeux returned his carta in 1166 (Red Book, pp. 387–8). He died in 1197 before Michaelmas when his wife Eleanor had licence to marry whom she wished (P.R.S., N.S., 8, p. 114). Nigel son of Alexander succeeded his father in 1166 and died circa 1200 (see note to 2123 below). Roger Arsic witnesses frequently in the second half of the twelfth century (e.g. Danelaw Charters, p. 235, 1157–63, L.R.S., xviii, pp. 30, 98, temp. Henry II, p. 85, 1151–72 and 1171–2, p. 109, 1184–9 and no. 1298 in vol. iv, above, 1196–1203). It seems probable from the appearance of the charter and its terse form that it belongs to the period circa 1170–80.

The charter evidently falls between the death of Ralf son of Stephen, her second husband, in 1202, and the death of Roger de Rolveston dean of Lincoln in 1223, since the land had been granted by the dean and chapter to Shelford Priory before Roger's death though not earlier than the appointment of William de Thornaco as archdeacon of Lincoln which took place between 31st March and 22nd May 1219 (Liber Antiquus, p. 94).

ADD. CHART.

2077. Notification by Thomas the prior, and the convent of Shelford, that they hold of the dean and chapter of Lincoln the lands and man in Rowston mentioned in the preceding charter: which lands and man the dean and chapter have granted to them for a yearly render of two shillings at the instance of William son of John of Collingham through whom the chapter received the land from Maud de Caux. When formerly the prior and convent failed in the payment of four shillings and a penny for some land in the parish of St. Augustine in the Butewerc in Lincoln, they promised that henceforth they would pay the said four shillings and a penny and the said two shillings at the stated terms—namely three shillings within the quindene of St. Michael and three shillings and a penny of Landtol within the quindene of Easter. For any failure in payment they will give half a mark to the fabric of the cathedral and will submit themselves to the jurisdiction of William archdeacon of Lincoln and his successors for the time being so that he may distrain on their benefices in the archdeaconry of Lincoln. (1219-1223.)

Note: For an account of the family of Crevequer see L.R.S., xxii, intro. pp. lxxx–ii. The grantor is Alexander son of Simon. The charter is circa 1200 as Eudo the provost and Richard of Hardres are frequently found about that time. It must be earlier than Easter 1206 when John of Haseby had retired into religion (C.R.R., iv, p. 137). Gerard of Howell held a knight's fee in Towthorpe and Gonerby of the honour of Creon in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 184). Nicholas of Ewerby gave relief for a half fee in Ewerby held of the bishop of Lincoln in 1200 (Rotuli de oblatiis et de finibus, p. 108). He was holding this in 1212 and Alfred of Ewerby had the fifth of a fee of Gilbert de Gant there (Book of Fees, i, p. 179).

Note: For William son of Jollan of Ingleby see C. W. Foster, Aisthorpe and Thorpe in the Fallows, 1927, pp. 82, 97–8. Canon Foster suggests that Jollan of Ingleby and Walter the Chamberlain I may have married co-heiresses Beatrice and Emma of Scampton respectively. William son of Jollan was holding a knight's fee of Gerard de Camvill in Ingleby and Thorpe in the Fallows in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 192). He was dead by 1242 (ibid., ii, p. 1032) though he was still alive in 1232 (L.R.S., ix, p. 117). Gerard of Howell was holding one knight's fee of the Craon fee in Towthorpe and Gonerby (Book of Fees, i, p. 184) and the fifteenth part of a knight's fee of the Clinton fee in Gonerby (ibid., p. 185). His land in Thre and Winnibriggs wapentakes had been inherited by Richard of Howell by 1242 (Book of Fees, ii, pp. 1034–38) and Richard was also holding of the bishop in Howell though not by military service (ibid., p. 1032). It was probably to this land that the advowson of Howell was appurtenant, for Gerard presented to the church before 1219 (L.R.S., iii, p. 70). Richard presented in 1237–8 (L.R.S., xi, p. 36) by which time Gerard was presumably dead. He was alive in 1225–6 when he was claiming to present to Evedon in the right of his wife's dower, she being the widow of Hugh of St. Vedast (L.R.S., ix, p. 148). John son of Thomas of Hale is probably the John of Hale who held a twelfth part of a fee in Hale of Gilbert de Gant in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 179) while Thomas Anglicus held the twentieth part of a knight's fee also of Gant (ibid., loc. cit.). One of this name was dead by September 1226 when his widow was suing for dower (Final Concords, i, p. 191) but another Thomas held the fee in 1242 (Book of Fees, ii, p. 1033).

Simon the Chamberlain was holding the sixth part of a knight's fee in Little Hale in 1212 of Gilbert de Gant (Book of Fees, i, p. 179). Thomas seems to have been dead by 1204 when Simon son of Thomas Chamberlain was vouched to warrant a quarter beuete in Great Hale to Henry Chamberlain who had been impleaded by Gilbert de Gant (C.R.R., III, 261, IV, 61, 68, 153, 223). It does not appear how, if at all, this family of Chamberlain was connected with the Chamberlains of Heckington or those of Wickenby and Marston. Alan de Boidel was impleaded by the abbot of Louth Park in 1204 (C.R.R., III, 172, 233, 263, 317) and had licence to concord in Louth Park Term 1205 (ibid., IV, p. 59).

Note : The late Dr. G. H. Fowler printed two groups of charters relating to Rippingale, in which Geoffrey and Hugh Lovet were grantors (Early Land Charters of Rippingale, A.A.S.R., vol. 41, pt. 2, pp. 141-8, vol. 42, pt. 2, pp. 153-6). He pointed out the difficulty of assigning any precise dates and this group suffers from the same defect. Richard Lovet held one and a half fees of the barony of Craon in 1166 (Red Book, p. 385) but there is no mention of them as tenants holding directly of the Craons in 1212. Geoffrey Lovet may be identified with the man of that name who owed two marks pro recto suo festinando in 1178 and was quit the following year (p. 8, and 25, Henry II, p. 47). He seems also to be a witness to a charter of Robert de Gant and Alice his wife addressed to Robert (II) bishop of Lincoln (B.M. Cottonian MS. Vespasian E. xx, Cartulary of Bardney Abbey, f. 72). He was a pledge for Robert of Haceby in the eyre of 1202 (L.R.S., xxii, no. 213). Richard son of Ralf was a pledge for William son of Peter (ibid., no. 367). Richard Selvain held a knight's fee of the bishop of Lincoln in Haconby in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 181). He was involved in lawsuits with William de Colevill concerning land in Burton Coggles and Haconby in 1218 (Selden Soc., liii, nos. 211, 295, 298, etc.). He was dead circa 1230 when his widow Maud de Colevill quitclaimed her right in some of his land to the bishop (see no. 344 in vol. ii above).

Note : John Gubold held one knight's fee of Baldwin Wake in Ripplingale in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 180). In 1242 this was said to be in Haconby and Ripplingale and he held also in the latter place one fee of Petronella de Craon of the new feoffment (ibid., ii, p. 1027). He had also five bovates in Dembleby of Gilbert de Gaunt (ibid., p. 1068). He was a collector of the aid for marrying the King's sister Isabel to the Emperor Frederick in 1235-6 (ibid., i, p. 549). This group of clerks is frequently found witnessing circa 1215-20 (see e.g. nos. 1109-10, 1127 in vol. iv above).

Note: This gift was confirmed by Bishop Hugh I (no. 1002 in vol. iii above): his charter can be more narrowly dated than it has been in that volume as it is witnessed by Winemer the subdean who had certainly ceased to hold that office in or before 1192 when he became archdeacon of Northampton. Richer clerk of Swaton is perhaps to be identified with Richer son of the priest who was appealed by Ralf of Scredington of wounding him in the course of an affray when several others including Andrew of Horbling were appealed of breaking into the house which was of a priest in Scredington. Unfortunately the main entry is defective. (Rot. Cur. Reg., Record Commission, vol. ii, pp. 272-3.)

Note: The connexion of the family of Hauteyn, which held land of the fee of Humphrey de Bohun in Helleston and Oxnead in Norfolk in 1185, with the Domesday tenant Haklein has been traced by Round in the introduction to the Rotuli de Dominabus, p. xlvii. At that time Agnes daughter of Robert Grelley was a widow with three sons by Theobald Hauteyn the eldest being fifteen years of age. Mr. C. T. Clay has recently identified this Agnes with the widow of William de Amundeville who died in 1168-9. (The family of Amundeville in L.A.S.R., vol. iii, p. 115-7.) Of these three Theobald de Hauteyn of these charters was certainly one: a second was John who married Margery daughter of Jollan de Amundeville the nephew of Agnes' first husband, and had a son Robert who had succeeded his father by 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 182): the third may have been the sir Thomas Hauteyn whose clerk wrote no. 2102 below. On 29th January 1198 Theobald levied a fine with Hugh of Threkingham concerning a carucate in Scredington which Agnes de Amundeville, mother of Theobald, had held of Hugh and his ancestors. This was acknowledged to be Theobald's right and was held for a sixth part of a knight's fee (Final Concords, i, p. 9). On 1st July 1202 Richard of Billingborough acknowledged ten and threequarter bovates and a messuage in Scredington to be Theobald's, for which the latter paid twenty marks (ibid., p. 18). In 1202 Theobald impleaded John the parson for two bovates in Scredington, but as the parson vouched the dean and chapter to warrant and they said they could not do so in the vacancy of the see the case was postponed (L.R.S., xxii, no. 264). There is no further trace of it unless this charter and no. 2103 represent the final acknowledgement of the chapter's right. In 1203 and 1205 he was acting with Albert de Nevill for Robert Grelley, who was his cousin and had been a minor aged eleven in 1185 (C.R.R., iii, p. 62; iv, p. 5). In 1212 Theobald, who is given no surname but is almost certainly to be identified with Hauteyn held one knight's fee of Gilbert de Gant in Scredington and one sixth of a fee of Hugh of Threkingham in Scredington (Book of Fees, i, p. 180). In 1218-9 he was plaintiff against Alexander of Pointon and William of Arderne in a complicated suit of novel disseisin of land he had in fee farm in Rauceby, Caythorpe, Awthorpe, Aslackby and Hawthorpe (Selden Soc., liii, nos. 161, 218, 763) and was referred to as an agent of Robert Grelley in a suit brought against the latter of novel disseisin of common pasture (ibid., no. 365). In 1221 he was again acting for Robert Grelley in a suit in Lancashire (Bracton's Note Book, ed. F. W. Maitland, no. 1547). In 1226 he was impleaded by Alice widow of Ralf of Norton for her dower in two bovates in Rauceby and lost to her (ibid., no. 1728). In 1226 he was impleaded by the Abbot of Aumale of novel disseisin in Denthorpe in Yorkshire but the case was postponed to Westminster (ibid., no. 1874).

He was on several occasions between 1227 and 1232 appointed a justice of novel disseisin or darrein presentment (Patent Rolls, 1225-32, pp. 165, 209, 351, etc.). In 1232 he summoned John of Preston to render him accounts as his bailiff in Marfleet in Yorkshire but John pleaded that he was the deputy of Adam of Marfleet the real bailiff and vouched Adam to warranty (Bracton's Note Book, no. 859). In 1234 Theobald manumitted Thomas son of Hilda (Final Concords, i, p. 259).

He seems to have died between this time and 1242 when he had apparently been succeeded by Robert Hauteyn. In 1212 the latter had held the twelfth part of a knight's fee in Shillingthorpe in Braceborough of Gilbert de Gant (Book of Fees, i, p. 182). In 1242 in addition to the fee, now stated to be one fifth, he had in Scredington one fee of William de Dyve who held of the Gant fee, one twenty-eighth of a fee of Walter of Threkingham, which perhaps represents the holding of 1197 diminished from one sixth of a fee, and half a fee of Petronilla de Vaux or Craon (ibid., ii, p. 1033). In Aslackby hundred John Hauteyn held four bovates of Robert Hauteyn, who held of Robert de Thorpe, who held of Henry the Chamberlain and he of Petronilla de Craon and she of the king (ibid., ii, p. 1027).

Robert was evidently indebted to the Jews who had claims on his Norfolk property (Close Rolls, 1231-4, p. 498) and was in debt to Aaron Henne of Norwich in 1245 (Excerpta e rotulis finium, i, p. 438). He was evidently dead by 1st July 1256 when Hamo his son and heir levied a fine concerning the Scredington property (L.R.S., xvii, p. 113). Hamo's wife was named Margery and she may have been the daughter or sister of William Brito who was holding land to the use of Hamo and Margery his wife (Final Concords, i, p. 361).

The first of this series of charters was probably issued in 1226 or 1227 when Ralf son of Reginald was sheriff. No. 2102 is possibly earlier and its witnesses are less notable. John of Norton quondam parson is probably the John impleaded by Theobald in 1202.

Note : For Robert Hauteyn see note to no. 2101 above. This charter was probably issued about the same time, and the attestation of Martin of Pattishall suggests the time of his eyre early in October of that year. It is not clear however what Stephen of Ecton who was a clerk of archbishop Langton and a canon of Salisbury and Elias of Dereham, also a canon of Salisbury, were doing in Lincoln at that time unless it was on business connected with the Council to be held in London to discuss the grant of a sixteenth to the King : the canons of Salisbury requested the summons of the Council and particularly wished the matter to be treated by the province as a whole not by each diocese separately. As Elias of Dereham was a leader in this matter he may have been in Lincoln to put his case to the chapter (see D. B. Weske, Convocation of the Clergy, London 1937, pp. 43-4).

Note: Ralf Pilate (or Pylat) was bailiff of Aswardhurn wapentake when Hugh de Bussei was sheriff in 1300. He was also sub-taxor for the ninth of 1297 in Screddington (L.R.S., xxxvi, pp. 141, 162). There is a reference to the building of the rectory of Screddington in a fragment of a compotus roll at Lincoln (bij/5/13).

Note: This and the next two charters have several witnesses who are also to be found in no. 2109 which from the attestation of Richard of Bardney as chapter clerk must fall between 1304 and 1308. As this grant is made to Richard of Winchcombe, who died in 1303, and he had re-granted it to the chapter before his death it is before 1303 though probably not long before. He was prebendary of St. Botolph (Le Neve, Fasti Ecclesiae Anglicanae, ii, p. 113).

Note: For the date of the regrant see the next charter: this is probably not much earlier. It may be noted that the charter contains the phrase Tenendam 7 habendam de capitulo domino. This was required as a result of the statute of Quia Emptores, 1290, but cannot be taken as evidence that the charter is later than 1290 as the phrase is sometimes found earlier where the new tenant is substituted for the old instead of holding of him.

Texts : MS—Orig. dij/86/3/22. R374.

Note : The Warden of St. Peter's altar was the auditor of causes of the dean and chapter. This Richard is not the same man as the clerk who so frequently witnesses charters circa 1230–45. He was later prebendary of Thorngate (1312) and Sexaginta Solidorum (1313) but apparently did not hold the latter for long (Le Neve, Fasti Ecclesiae Anglicanae, ii, pp. 222–208). Richard of Bardney was chapter clerk 1304–8. (The office of Chapter Clerk at Lincoln in the Middle Ages in Medieval Studies presented to Rose Graham, 1950, p. 180.)

Note: In 1242 Reginald son of Elias was holding with his co-parceners two parts of a knight's fee of Gilbert de Gant in Brandon [in Hough on the Hill par.] (Book of Fees, ii, p. 1069). In 1212 the co-parceners of Elias were Alan de Hilderuuell' and Arnald of Brandon (ibid., i, p. 187). The fifth witness to the present charter is possibly the heir of Alan. Thomas son of Reginald is probably to be identified with Thomas of Brandon a juror for Loveden wapentake in 1242 (ibid., ii, p. 1039).

Var. R.: ¹ sic.

Note: For the family of Alexander son of Osbert, who was the grandson of the Domesday tenant Colegrim, see E.Y.C., vol. v, pp. 255–8. He held of the Honour of Richmond in Fulbeck, Leadenham and Stoke and of Robert of Stafford in Skinnand. He succeeded Osbert some time after 1130 and had himself been succeeded by Nigel his son before 1166. He made a grant with Nigel his heir to Sempringham Priory (The Genealogist, xv, p. 222) with several of the same witnesses as occur here: the Sempringham charter cannot be earlier than 1147 as it refers to Vaudey Abbey which was not founded until that year, nor later than 1160 when Humfrey ceased to be sub-dean. The present charter is also limited by the attestation of Humfrey. William the archdeacon is probably William son of Osbert, the archdeacon of the West Riding of Lindsey (see Appendix I). The Baswin family made several grants in Bassingthorpe to Stixwold Priory (B.M. Add. MS 46701, pp. 140–52). One grant by Osbert is dated 1172 (p. 142). In another he confirms a grant of his uncle Richard (ibid., loc. cit.). Robert the clerk of Stoke occurs in several of the Stixwold charters either as witness or one in whose hand faith was pledged (Danelaw Charters, pp. 281–4 and 288).

with which their church of Hykeham is endowed. If he fails to pay Ilbert may enter upon the fee as the chapter do if the three shillings due to them are not paid at the proper term. (Circa 1150-70.)

Walter of Anwick, Michael of Anwick and Richard son of the chaplain were all jurors for Flaxwell wapentake in 1242 (Book of Fees, ii, p. 1023). William of Anwick in Ruskington was also a juror (ibid., pp. 1023-4) who is possibly to be identified with this grantor. One of that name who is certainly this grantor was holding half a knight's fee in Brauncewell of John of Bayeux (ibid., p. 1024). Walter of Anwick had a whole fee in Anwick of John of Everingham (ibid., loc. cit.).

2146. Lease by Henry le Dimur of North Stoke, to Roger of Turville, clerk, of his cultura called Littelmor, in the fields of Stoke, containing twenty selions, for ten shillings which Roger gave him in his great necessity. Roger shall hold the land for twelve years, that is until he has had six complete crops and should he suffer any damage through defect of warranty he shall retain the cultura until his losses as estimated by worthy men shall have been made good. At the end of the term the cultura shall revert to Henry and his heirs. Feast of St. Augustine (probably 26th May) 1250.

ADD. CHART.

2153. Agreement between Peter of Hungary, canon of Lincoln, and Ralf de Sancto Vedasto, with the consent of Annette his wife, by which Ralf leased to Peter his capital messuage in Haddington with the five bovates pertaining to that messuage until Peter should have taken twenty crops from the land. Ralf and his heirs will warrant the land to Peter and will acquit it of all service as well to the King as all others: if they cannot warrant the land they will give in exchange the capital messuage and four and a half bovates of land in Thurlby by Lincoln which are of Ralf's inheritance, until Peter shall have received the value due from the land in Haddington. If by defect of service Peter or his assigns should suffer loss or expend money of their own, Ralf and his heirs will make it good: if they fail to do so they shall give a mark of silver to the fabric of the cathedral within eight days. If Peter or his assigns should spend as much as five marks sterling on the repair or construction of buildings Ralf and his heirs will repay it at the end of the term of the lease: if they fail to do so Peter and his assigns shall remain in possession of the land until they have recovered the money. For this agreement Peter has given Ralf sixteen marks sterling and he must hand over the land in cultivation and not fallow at the end of the term of the lease. Michaelmas 1224.

Note : Hugh of St. Vedast held a knight's fee of the bishop of Lincoln in Quarring-ton and Evedon in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, p. 180) and a third of a fee of Walter de Clifford, who held of the bishop in Thurlby by Lincoln (ibid., p. 187) in 1242. The latter holding was said to be in Auburn (ibid., ii, p. 1047). He was a juror for Aswardhurn wapentake in 1242 (ibid., p. 1030). In 1229 he was sued by Sarah widow of Alexander de Sancto Vedasto for dower in Thurlby (Final Concords, i, p. 223). This group of charters probably belongs to the period 1223-30 when Peter of Hungary was making provision for his chantry which was ordained 1223-4 (see no. 1135 in vol. iv above). Many of the witnesses are the same as those in no. 2171 below which is dated 1231.

Note : William the chaplain of Aunsby was summoned in January 1219 as a witness in a suit of Agnes of Haceby against her brother Robert son of Robert of Haceby, for land which she said their father Robert had given her in Swarby before he retired to Kyme priory where he died (Selden Soc., liii, nos. 657, 785). Simon de Neuill and Beatrice his wife and Peter de Kormerie and Rosamund his wife were parties to a fine in 1225 with Simon of Ropsley and Alee his wife concerning six bovates in Scot Willoughby and a windmill in Osbournby of which Alee was claiming a third as dower (Final Concords, i, pp. 174-5). In 1242 he was holding with Peter de Cornery two parts of a knight's fee in the hundred of Scot Willoughby and Osbournby of Michael Belet and with Walter son of Roger and other parceners a sixth part of a fee in Walcot by Folkingham (Book of Fees, ii, 1029-30). The latter was his wife's inheritance from William Scot her brother (Final Concords, i, p. 175).

Var. R. : The word in square brackets has been supplied conjecturally : there is a hole in the charter. ¹ Sic.

Note : It seems probable that this charter was issued circa 1290–1300. Walter Deudamur of Thorpe (? Laythorpe) was a royal official in 1298 at the time of the enquiry into the misdeeds of the King's servants in 1298 (L.R.S., xxxvi, sub nomine in biographical index). William de Reineuyle was bailiff of Aswardhurn wapentake and John son of Elias of Swarby was a juror for the wapentake at the same time (ibid., sub nomine). Philip of Aunsby was summoned with Walter Deudamur by the abbot of Vaudey for seizing twenty four of his plough beasts without warrant (ibid., no. 229). Mr. Sinclair Thomson suggests Philip may have been Walter's clerk.

Text: MS—Orig. dij/65/3/27. The charter is very much stained and faded and most of it is illegible to the naked eye. Some of the text has come up well under the ultra-violet ray but the words in square brackets have been supplied conjecturally: where the witnesses names or part of them have been supplied they have been taken from the preceding charter in which the list is the same.

Note: Eudo the provost most frequently witnesses with this title 1196–1203 though he was in office in 1206 and possibly after 1213 (see p. 283 in vol. iv above). Waleran of Rochford occurs in 1202 when he had licence to concord with Ismenia of Whaplode (L.R.S., xxii, no. 136). His wife Aubrey put Robert de Audertop', to be identified with the sixth witness, in her place in a plea of mort d'ancestor against Ismenia (ibid., no. 153). Waleran was holding in Skirbeck, of the Honour of Richmond in 1212 (Book of Fees, i, pp. 194–5). Alan the parson of Wyville probably preceded Simon of Tallington who was instituted before bishop Hugh II's tenth year (L.R.S., iii, p. 8) for there is no evidence at all that Eudo was acting as provost between 1230 and 1238 when Alan of Harborough was rector (L.R.S., ix, p. 192 and xi, p. 17). When Simon was instituted Peter son of Alan of Wyville renounced what right he might have in the church: he may perhaps have been the son of the earlier rector.

APPENDIX I

THE CHRONOLOGY OF THE ARCHDEACONS OF LINCOLN IN THE TWELFTH CENTURY

The Epistola de contemptu mundi of Henry, archdeacon of Huntingdon gives the succession of the first four archdeacons of Lincoln. "Remigius appointed Richard archdeacon of Lincoln, to whom succeeded Albert the Lombard: to him also succeeded William of Bayeux and now Robert the younger, the richest of all the archdeacons in England."¹ This Robert was incorrectly identified by Le Neve with Robert Chesney, who was in fact archdeacon of Leicester.² William archdeacon of Lincoln witnessed a charter of William the bishop's constable which is earlier than 1143 and may be circa 1135³ and this is the only occasion on which William of Bayeux can be identified with absolute certainty as a witness. In Nos. 131 and 132 in Vol. I above (anon Foster tentatively identified (in the index) "Willelmo archidiacono" witnessing two grants of the Roumare family in 1140-7 and 1152-3 respectively, as the archdeacon of Lincoln, but the second is impossible as Robert was certainly in office then. The first is also unlikely for though one would assume that an archdeacon witnessing without precise designation of his archdeaconry, was the one with jurisdiction over the area in which the subject of the grant lay, this proves not always to be so. Baldric of Leicester witnessed without territorial title, simply as archdeacon, a charter concerning land in Stickney given to Spalding priory⁴ and it is noticeable that the early archdeacons of the area known first as the West Riding of Lindsey and subsequently as Stow witness without territorial title even though all the others of the diocese in the same charter may be precisely described. This is true of Osbert the archdeacon in the charter of William the bishop's constable⁵ and also of William son of Osbert in the charter of Alexander concerning South Scarle prebend in 1147.⁶ This peculiarity is to be noted even as late as 1189-95 when "Alexandro archidiacono"⁷ witnesses, though in issuing charters his predecessor Richard de Almeria had sometimes though not habitually used the designation of West Riding.⁸ Since there is no indication of the date of William of Bayeux's death and since William son of Osbert was certainly an archdeacon before the death of bishop Alexander⁹ it does not seem by any means certain that "William the archdeacon " of the earlier of the two Roumare grants is of Lincoln. He may well be of the West Riding and it is possible that it was William of the West Riding who witnessed the foundation charter of Revesby Abbey in 1142.¹ Henry of Huntingdon gives no help on this matter as he does not mention the eighth archdeaconry at all.

Robert was in office at least as early as 1145, for he witnesses a grant of bishop Alexander to Bardney Abbey with Hugh archdeacon of Bedford who was succeeded by Nicholas in or before that year.² He also witnessed a charter of Alexander to Spalding Priory concerning the church of Belchford.³ From the same bishop he received jointly with Hugh the dean of Grantham, a mandate to order Hugh the clerk of Ropsley to restore tithe to Belvoir Priory.⁴ To bishop Alexander and Robert the archdeacon, Ralf de Aincurt, son of the founder of Thurgarton Priory addressed the notification of his grant of six bovates to the church of St. Andrew, Scopwick.⁵ Robert was still in office in 1156 when he witnessed at Louth a dated charter of bishop Robert II to the house of Saint Martin d'Acy.⁶ There is no certain evidence to prove that he held office after this year but equally nothing to show that he had been succeeded before 1160.⁷ In the eight years from 1148 to 1156 various charters were addressed to or witnessed by him—the foundation charter of Bullington Priory, probably before or in 1150,⁸ a grant by William son of Godfrey of Newhouse and Maud his wife, to Newhouse Abbey circa 1150;⁹ another to Newhouse by Walter son of Alfred 1150–5;¹⁰ a charter of bishop Robert to Godstowe nunnery which is also witnessed by Henry archdeacon of Huntingdon;¹¹ the gift by Richard de la Haye of Cammeringham to Blanchelande Abbey c. 1155;¹² and a grant by Geoffrey de Turs and Amabilia his wife to Newhouse c. 1155–60.¹³

Rannulf, earl of Chester addressed his charter announcing the foundation of Minting Priory to Robert the bishop and Robert the archdeacon,¹⁴ and Rannulf of Bayeux similarly addressed them in recording a gift to Newhouse c. 1150.¹ Bishop Robert II notified Robert the archdeacon and all the clergy of Lincolnshire of his admission of Holy Trinity Priory, York to the rectory of West Rasen on the presentation of Robert de Gant, c. 1150-4.² This was witnessed by John the clerk of the archdeacon of Lincoln.

The gift of Snipir of Bayeux to Sixle, of land in West Wykeham was made in common synod at Lincoln in the hand of Robert the archdeacon.³ To this the archdeacon's brother Roger was a witness. The date is before the death of Humfrey the subdean on 19th November, 1160⁴ and possibly c. 1155. David archdeacon of Buckingham acted in the place of Robert the archdeacon of Lincoln in receiving the affidation of William son of Goer when making a similar grant to Sixle, the date being about the same.⁵

Robert the archdeacon also witnessed grants to Sixle⁶ (c. 1150), to Bullington⁷ (c. 1155) and to Alvingham⁸ (c. 1155): in the latter the list begins "Robertus archidiaconus Lincolnie et Rogerus frater ejus". He was also present when A. de Linc⁹ made a gift of property in Lincoln to the canons in the presence of bishop Robert II.⁹

Bishop Robert II confirmed among other possessions of Newhouse Abbey a bovate of land and a house with pasture for 100 sheep in Binbrook of the land of Robert the archdeacon.¹⁰ Robert the archdeacon of Lincoln who gave a certain orchard which he had bought, to God and St. Mary of Lincoln and whose obit was celebrated in the Minster on 15th January was identified by the editor of the obit list in the Great Bible with Robert the younger.¹¹

From the dated charter of 1156 until the Pipe Roll of 1167 the succession is obscure: though the archdeacon in the latter source is also Robert there is evidence for a Richard archdeacon of Lincoln between 1158 and 1166 and it is possible that Roger de Almeria may have held that office. This Roger was made precentor of Lincoln by bishop Alexander 1147-8;¹² owing to misapprehension by Le Neve he has frequently been called "of Derby" and is so identified in recent works.¹³ The late Dr. H. E. Salter in some manuscript notes sent to Canon Foster called attention to the confusion, and examination of evidence shows that not only does Roger of Derby survive to a much later period (at least 1179¹ and probably later though he does not appear among the canons listed c. 1187² and he was certainly dead about 1193)³ but in a confirmation to Sixle Roger the precentor and Roger of Derby are both witnesses.⁴ Wherever Roger the precentor is given a surname it is either de Almeria or some form thereof.⁵ Roger was succeeded as precentor by Richard de Almeria, presumably his son or nephew, after 19th November 1160 and before 19th April, 1161.⁶

A grant by Nicholas de Areci to Newhouse was made and confirmed at Louth before Robert the Bishop, Rogero cantore Lincolniensi et archidiacono being the first witness. The third witness is Baldric de Sigillo, who, with master Robert of Burnham, is described as canon and who therefore was presumably not yet archdeacon of Leicester, a dignity which he obtained shortly after 1158.⁷ The attestation is perhaps not sufficiently precise and Lincolniensis may refer only to the precentorship and the holding of office as an archdeacon of the see of Lincoln in the same way that Ralf de Diceto speaks of himself as archdeacon of London when he was in fact archdeacon of Middlesex,⁸ but it none the less deserves record as a possibility that Roger was in office. Roger might however have been archdeacon of the West Riding, as Richard de Almeria quite certainly was later.⁹

A charter of Henry d'Oilli to Thame Abbey was witnessed by Richard Daumeri "cantor et archidiaconus Lincoln'".¹⁰ On this the editor, Dr. Salter, comments, "Henry d'Oilli seems to have died in 1163: Richard Daumeri was not precentor until 1152 or Roger of Derby was at some time custos of the archdeaconry of Lincoln for it was recorded that Baldwin d'Oyry acknowledged before Roger at the time when Roger was custos that he held the churches of Gedney and Whaplode of the monks of Crowland. This was probably in the first half of the reign of Henry II (Ass. Arch. Rep., vol. 42, pt. I, p. 4, n. 6).

See also Danelaw Charters, p. 21, where R. Lincolniensis ecclesie precentor et archidiaconus addresses omnibus fidelibus per Westriding constitutis. In the index he is identified as Roger d'Aumery precentor and archdeacon of Lincoln. It seems more likely that whether he is Roger or Richard his archdeaconry is the West Riding.

later. Le Neve misled by this charter makes Richard Daumeri to have been archdeacon of Lincoln but one man could not have held two offices." There is however evidence that that two offices could be held together in the twelfth century¹ and at York the Treasurer-ship of the Minster was at this time often held with an archdeaconry.² That this Richard was for a time at least archdeacon of Lincoln seems to be corroborated by a charter of bishop Robert II which is witnessed by Richard archdeacon of Lincoln, in company with David of Buckingham, Robert of Oxford, Hugh of Huntingdon, Baldric of Leicester and Nicholas of Bedford.³ As the charter cannot be more closely dated than 1158-66, it is impossible to say more than that Richard held office before 1163. It is conceivable that if Roger in fact held the precentorship with the West Riding archdeaconry and Richard was holding the archdeaconry of Lincoln when the precentorship became vacant he might have held Lincoln with the precentorship for a short time and then perhaps have been induced to resign it for a smaller archdeaconry compatible with another dignity.

In 1167 Robert archdeacon of Lincoln appears in the Pipe Rolls⁴ and continues therein until 1170⁵ when he was noted as dead: he was however alive when earl Aubrey received the oaths of the pledges of the sheriff at Lincoln in 1170 when a grantor to Castle Acre affirmed his gift in Robert's hand and dated the charter recording the fact by earl Aubrey's visit.⁶ He was succeeded before Michaelmas 1171 by Geoffrey the king's son⁷ who in 1172 became the elect of Lincoln.⁸ Miss Norgate⁹ thought that Geoffrey retained the archdeaconry not only while he was elect but after his resignation in 1182 when he became Henry's chancellor. From No. 340 above, however, it appears that he gave the archdeaconry to Peter, his half brother, the son of his mother but not of Henry II. Since it was a common practice for bishops to give an archdeaconry to a relative it seems probable that Peter received the dignity shortly after Geoffrey's confirmation as elect in 1175. It is evident that he was anxious to promote Peter's prosperity for he later tried to obtain for him the deanery of York and an archdeaconry in that diocese when he became archbishop, though he failed in this design owing to the opposition of the canons of York.¹⁰

Few archdeacons who were not engaged in the king's service can have been less active than Peter: rare traces only remain of his performance of archidiaconal functions during his unusually long tenure of office, which lasted until 1217 at least: only during the vacancy after the death of St. Hugh, when he exercised full jurisdiction sede vacante do any more than isolated references to him occur.¹ He was presumably the Petro archdiacono who witnessed the institutions of Gilbert de Lacy to Great Hale and Roger de Rolveston to Heckington, both probably on the same occasion as the witnesses are the same, between 1192 and 1195.² In March of the latter year when the canons of York were quarrelling with their archbishop and flouted his authority by refusing to obtain the chrism from his suffragan, the bishop of Whithern, and asking St. Hugh for it, Peter forbade the bishop to give it to them and appealed to Rome on his brother's behalf.³

It seems possible that he was much abroad for the objection made to his appointment as dean by the chapter of York in 1195 was that he was in Paris: this could scarcely be a serious impediment if he were on an isolated visit.⁴ Much of his work was necessarily performed by deputies of whom the first was probably Robert de Hardres. It is possible that he may have had charge of the archdeaconry before Peter's appointment for there is a document in the Bardney cartulary which suggests this.

"Robertus de Hard' uniuersis has litteras uisuris et audituris salutem. Vniuersitati uestre innotescat quod cum archidiaconatus Linc' curam gererem, possessionem ecclesie de Edlington' in manu abbatis et monachorum de Bard' liberam et quietam cum omni integritate inueni excepto quod quandam uicariam in eadem ecclesia Willelmo de Stigedeby clerico suo assignauerunt, pro qua annuam eis pensionem trium uidelicet marcarum persoluit. Hoc totum dominus electus Linc' G. ratum habuit et michi precepit ut ratum haberem. Statui ergo eos de cetero auctoritate qua fungebar cum omni tranquillitate possidendi in pace dimittere. Hiis testibus. Willelmo decano de Hagwrthinham. Hugone de Strattune. magistro R. de Kinia. Willelmo de Stih'bi. Eudone de Wadingwrd. Herui de Horsington. Willelmo de Hereford. Simone de Insula."⁵

Robert de Hardres is described as vice-archdeacon in a document of 1183⁶ and seems to have acted in that capacity until he became archdeacon of Huntingdon circa 1190.

DD. Queen's Coll. 285.

In an abstract of a document from a Savigny cartulary, unfortunately destroyed in the bombardment of St. Lô in 1944, master Robert de Nocton, described as "acting archdeacon of those parts", received the pledging of faith by Alexander Brito, brother of Haimo the chancellor of Lincoln, in a settlement about tithes at Long Benington.¹ Alexander was alive in 1187 when he witnessed a dated charter with the title of "brother of the chancellor"² although Haimo was by that time dead so that the absence of "quondam" in the present document does not limit it to a year earlier than 1182. The only witness of note to the Savigny document is Ralf abbot of Swineshead, who was certainly not abbot earlier than 1167 and may not have held office before 1178: he died as abbot of Furness in 1189.³

It seems possible that William de Hardres may have acted for Peter later as there is a statement that during the vacancy after the death of St. Hugh "William de Hardres condan archidiaconus Lincolnie" admitted and instituted a clerk whose name is lost, to a living the name of which is also lost: from the two persons who are mentioned as those who can prove this, Alexander son of Fulk of Whaplode and Peter of Baston, it was probably in the south of the county.⁴ Canon Foster comments that William is otherwise unknown as archdeacon of Lincoln; but it seems much more probable that he was the vice-archdeacon, for Peter certainly continued in office long after. During this vacancy Peter instituted several incumbents as official sede vacante.⁵ In 1202 Letters Patent of presentation were addressed to him on behalf of Frederick the clerk to the church of "Akesby".⁶ In the Pipe Roll of the same year he is recorded as owing £10.⁷ A letter of institution issued by him in the time of bishop William of Blois was produced in 1212 in a suit over the advowson of Skegness.⁸

After the return of bishop Hugh of Wells from France in 1213 Master William of Brauncewell⁹ seems to have acted for Peter though he was not given the title of official, as was John of Horkstow who seems to have taken William's place.¹⁰ Gilbert de Innocentibus on one occasion is described as the official of the archdeacon of Lincoln in Kesteven¹¹ and on three other occasions, though not given that precise title, he was acting in that part of Lincolnshire.¹²

There is a note in the Rolls of Hugh that speech must be had with the archdeacon of Lincoln or his official, master J., concerning his claims to two houses from Nun Coton, the whole church of Cuxwold and half the church of Keelby.¹

In 1217 the clergy of the archdeaconry informed the Pope that Peter was altogether unequal to the charge and ought to make up for his insufficiency by a good life and works of piety, instead of which he had injured the archdeaconry and disgraced the clergy. Innocent therefore appointed the abbots of Sibton and Leiston and the prior of Blyborough to examine and report.² Whether they reported and Peter was in consequence removed or whether he died is not known, but at some time between 31st March and 22nd of May 1219 William de Thornaco became archdeacon of Lincoln.³ From this time the succession is straightforward.

THE ELSELIN AND CAUX ESTATES : AN ATTEMPT TO DISENTANGLE
SOME CONFUSIONS

I

MAUD DE CAUX

The descent and marriages of Maud de Caux, the heiress of fifteen of the forty fees of the Domesday estate of Geoffrey Alselin throw interesting light on the intermingling of social classes in the twelfth century England. The Alselins of Norman origin, though not apparently of the great nobility, but rather those whose fortunes were made by the conquest, are found allied by the early twelfth century with another Norman house, Caux, of which nothing is known in this branch : with the great Norman nobility through Isabel de Ferrers and in the next generation through Sybil Basset with the great ministerial family which rose in the reign of Henry I. Sybil's daughter by Robert de Caux, Maud, married as her first husband Adam son of Peter son of Assolf, a descendent of a Saxon thane of Yorkshire whose son Peter had married Emma de Lascelles, of the Norman nobility. Maud's second husband was Ralf son of Stephen, a chamberlain of Henry II and a member of the new ministerial class of that reign. All classes, Norman and Saxon, noble and administrative, are represented in this family tree.

The immediate reason for investigating Maud's history was the discovery, in the attempt to date no. 2076 above, that conflicting statements had been made by various authorities as to the order of her two marriages and the date of the death of Ralf son of Stephen, the king's chamberlain, described by some as her first, by others as her second husband.

In 1086 Geoffrey Alselin held the estates of the Saxon Tochi son of Outi in Lincoln and Lincolnshire, Derby and Derbyshire, Northampton and Northamptonshire, Nottingham, and Nottinghamshire and Yorkshire.¹ Ralf, his nepos, was holding land in his fees of Ruskington, Dunsby, Westborough Evedon, Anwick, and North Rauceby in Kesteven, in Wrawby in Lindsey and in the houses in Northampton.²

The survival of the Lindsey survey (1115-8) and the Northamptonshire survey of a few years later, is fortunate in that they give the earliest information so far found of Robert de Caux, the ancestor of Maud. The Wrawby and Elsham properties of Geoffrey Alselin, the former of which had been held by Ralf his nepos, are described as four carucates, five bovates and a third of a bovat held by Robert de Chalz and Geoffrey Alselin.¹ In Northamptonshire the Domesday estate of Geoffrey at Milton Malsor and Collingtree (three and a half hides and two hides less a virgate respectively) was in the survey of Henry I's reign described as five hides and a virgate held by Robert de Causho and Geoffrey Alselin.² The half hide held in 1086 by Geoffrey in Rothersthorpe seems to have been given to the hospital of Northampton.³ Unfortunately, the Leicestershire survey of 1124-9 does not cover that part of Gartree wapentake where Geoffrey's land lay⁴ and no comparable surveys are available for Nottinghamshire, Derbyshire or the Kesteven division of Lincolnshire.

The date of the death of Geoffrey Alselin the Domesday tenant is uncertain as there is no clue to his age at that time, and the only other reference to a man of this name before Ralf Halselin succeeded to his father in 1129-30 is as witness to a charter of Robert Ferrers in the period 1121-27,⁵ but as a Geoffrey Alselin was with Ferrers at the battle of the Standard in 1138⁶ it may well be that the latter was also witness to the charter. The father of Ralf Halselin may have been the Domesday tenant or his son: a third possibility is that he was the son of Ralf nepos of Geoffrey of 1086 and that the division of the estate resulted from a joint holding which the phraseology in some entries suggests.⁷ It seems impossible to disentangle the various Geoffreys or to determine the basis for the division between Ralf Halselin's share (twenty-five fees) and that of Robert de Caux (fifteen fees)⁸ but it has usually been assumed that Robert obtained the land with an heiress probably the daughter of Geoffrey Alselin of 1086. This lady evidently predeceased her husband and he seems then to have married the widow of Richard de Luvetot for in 1129-30 William de Luvetot rendered account of £236 of the pleas of Geoffrey de Clinton and for the land which Robert de Caux had with his (William's) mother."¹ This land is probably the hide and the virgate in Polebrook which Robert was holding in chief in the Northamptonshire survey² and was part of the estate held in 1086 by Eustace the sheriff of Huntingdon.³ Farrer suggests that in spite of Round's opinion that not all the land of Eustace descended to his heirs this being part which Round thought did not, that in fact it did so descend and that the mother of William de Luvetot was an heiress of Eustace.⁴ The entry in the Pipe Roll of 31 H. I indicates that Robert de Caux I was by that time dead.

St. John's hospital was apparently not founded until c. 1138 (ibid., ii, p. 156).

⁷ The wording of the Ruskington and Westborough entries for example is "Geoffrey and Ralf his nepos have two teams", "Geoffrey Alselin and Ralf his nepos have four teams": at Evedon "Geoffrey and his nepos have a mill there and forty acres of marsh" (L.R.S., xix, pp. 194-6). Wrawby was, however, held by Ralf of Geoffrey and it is noteworthy that there was still an Alselin subtenancy of two knights there in 1166 when it was held by William Ansel (Red Book, i, p. 340). The same variations in wording may be noted in holdings in the other counties. From this the possibility of joint holding seemed to arise which might have caused the unequal division of later years and Mr. C. T. Clay, who kindly read this paper and made valuable criticisms, also thought this might be so and that the Geoffrey Alselin of 1115-8 might have been the son of Ralf the nepos, but Sir Frank Stenton does not consider that the joint tenancy is probable.

In the same Pipe Roll another Robert de Caux is mentioned with a son Walter old enough for him to be joined with his father in legal transactions, for they made fine together for the land of Lewin Chidde.⁵

Thoroton⁶ suggested that Robert de Caux I was the son of Geoffrey Alselin's man Walter, at Laxton in 1086, and that Walter son of Robert of 1129-30 was the father of Robert de Caux of Henry II's reign, but it is clear from the Haverholme charters that the Robert who was the father of Maud and who made the return of 1166 was the son of Robert who was in possession at the time of the foundation of Haverholme⁷ and who is probably also to be identified with the Robert of 1129-30. No more is known of Walter son of Robert than the entry in the Pipe Roll and as there is no reference to him in any of the charters of grant to Haverholme he was presumably dead by that time.

Robert the grandfather of Maud married Isabel de Ferrers, daughter of Robert de Ferrers, earl of Derby.⁸ It is nowhere made clear whether she was the daughter of Robert I who was created earl after the battle of the Standard in 1138 and died the following year or of Robert, his son and successor.⁹ If the Walter of 1129-30 were her son, which cannot be proved, it seems more probable that she was the daughter of Robert I for Walter must have been of legal age to be associated with his father in the transaction about the land of Lewin Chidde and though there is some uncertainty as to the age regarded as that of majority at this date,¹ Isabel's birth cannot have been later than the last years of the eleventh century. It seems probable that she also had a daughter Alice as a woman of that name described as the sister of Robert de Caux was holding land of him in 1166.² There is no indication of land held by either Isabel's husband or son which could be identified as her marriage portion. She seems to have been dowered in Lincolnshire for in 1166-7 the men of Isabel de Caux in that county had owed one mark of amercement³ of which they were declared quit; there is no other woman of this name identifiable, and her daughter-in-law was certainly dowered in Lincolnshire.

The succession of one Robert to another makes it difficult to determine the date of the death of Robert, Isabel's husband and this difficulty is aggravated by the omission of witnesses in the cartularies of Newstead Abbey⁴ and Thurgarton Priory,⁵ the loss of that of Shelford Priory and the incomplete transcription of that of Haverholme Priory,⁶ the last two being the houses most closely connected with the heirs of Geoffrey Alselin.⁷ A Robert de Caux gave a house in Nottingham to Newstead⁸ and either or both of the Roberts gave a mill on the Doverbeek to Thurgarton⁹ but there is no evidence to show at what date, for there is no clue in the charters themselves and the confirmation of Henry II to Thurgarton which mentions the mill is late in his reign.¹⁰

When Bishop Alexander founded Haverholme Priory in 1139 he had to compensate Ralf Halselin and Robert de Caux who shared the isle of Haverholme with him.¹¹ Both these men and their sons were benefactors to the house. Robert with his wife Isabel gave half the church of Ruskington:¹² in a charter addressed to the archdeacon, the dean and all the chapter of Lincoln he gave all his wood of Ruskington and five acres of the cultura of Ruchil:¹³ with Robert his son he gave the wood of Ruskington¹⁴ and by himself he gave two culturæ of his demesne in Ruskington.¹ Robert de Caux and Robert his son, Ralf Halselin and Ralf his son and all their men of Ruskington gave a tenement (mansura) in the fields of Ruskington free and quit from all human service with common pasture for at least five hundred sheep and forty beasts.²

The joint charter was witnessed by Elias abbot of Rufford and therefore cannot be earlier than c. 1146-8, the exact date of foundation of that abbey being uncertain.³ Ralf the archdeacon, who also witnesses it is probably to be identified with Ralf Baro, archdeacon of the church of York, whose precise archdeaconry is uncertain, but who is found witnessing a Rufford charter c. 1150-60.⁴ He was certainly in office in 1154 but may have been dead in 1158-9.⁵ Robert the husband of Isabel was evidently alive after the foundation of Rufford and it was possibly his fee which Henry fitz-empres offered among others to Rannulf, earl of Chester in March 1153, which suggests that Robert supported Stephen.⁶

Robert the younger confirmed whatever his father had given : namely half the church of Ruskington with its appurtenances, the whole wood of Ruskington and five acres of the cultura of Ruchill and of Sudewudecroft and of Nordwudecroft and all his demesne of Coteland in Anwick in arable land meadows and pasture and a tenement in the moor of Ruskington with the dwelling which Wolmar de la Hule held. Also he confirmed the gifts which Geoffrey de Calz his knight had made, namely a toft in Ruskington and two bovates in Cotelande, six acres in Grinuedeile and a gore of meadow in Nordhill. These, he says, he confirmed in the chapter house at Lincoln before he was a knight antiquam (sic) miles essem, a phrase which is not clear but may mean that the confirmation was made just before he was knighted. He then granted and confirmed of his own gift a toft and two bovates in Ruskington, a mill on the river Sleas with the toft of the mill and the soke of his men. The witnesses were Ralf the priest of Laxton, John the clerk, Ralf Halselin, Geoffrey de le Fremund (a tenent in Northamptonshire who had two fees of the old and one of the new feoffment in 1166) and Geoffrey de Caux.⁷ After his death his widow, Subil, confirmed to Haverholme the gift made by Robert, of the toft which Bruntat son of Osbert held : this may be identical with the toft given by Geoffrey de Caux who was the son of Bruntat.⁸

The Templars in the survey of 1185 record a long series of holdings which they had of the gift of Robert de Caux : three marks from the church of Rowston of the hand of master Peter de Tilney, during his life : a toft in Dorrington and nine bovates in Brauncewell : a bovat and a quarter and a toft in Stubton and several bovates held by various tenents for money rents and some dayworks in Rauceby.¹ In Shelford they had a toft and an acre held by Hugh Medicus for two shillings.²

Sybil, Robert's widow, was a member of the Basset family and it is from the record of widows and heiresses in the king's gift in 1185 that we get some precise information about her and her daughter. The date of her husband's death is not known precisely but he last appears with certainty in the Pipe Roll of 1167-8 when Richard Ursel, on his behalf rendered account of the forest of Nottingham.³ In subsequent years until 1171 Reginald de Lucy was accounting for the forest and for the amercement of Robert de Caux which in 14 Henry II was £15. 16. 0., until he obtained a writ of Perdono from the Queen by authority of the King.⁴ In the roll of widows and heiresses in Flaxwell wapentake it is stated "The widow of Robert de Caux and the mother of the wife of Ralf son of Stephen, the chamberlain of the lord king, daughter of Richard Basset and sister of William Basset is in the king's gift and is aged fifty and more. Her land in Ruskington is worth £12 a year with the stock that is there, namely two ploughs, a hundred sheep, five cows and a bull, and if there were added a hundred sheep which are lacking it would be worth £14. This land is of the barony of Ralf son of Stephen."⁵

The annotations to this entry are unfortunately misleading. To take the second of these first is better as it is the more quickly disposed of—Round says that "there is a difficulty about the manor, for Ruskington does not appear to be traceable as a Caux holding (though Rowston in this wapentake was) but in 1242-3 one fee there was held by Robert of Everingham who had married a grand-daughter and co-heir of Maud de Caux". Ruskington was part of the Domesday fief of Geoffrey Alselin and from the grants to Haverholme by both Sybil's husband and his father it is clear that here, as in most of the Alselin estates, both Ralf Halselin and Robert de Caux held land.

It is interesting to notice that Sybil in her widowhood bought land in Ruskington which she gave to Haverholme, namely two mansurae in Ruskington and two bovates in Dorrington and two bovates in Coteland (in Anwick) which she had bought from Ivo son of Richard of Rowston with the consent of Leta his wife.⁶ This was confirmed by Richard son of Ivo the seller's son.⁷ Sybil also bought of William son of Geoffrey son of Pain of Scopwick, two bovates and a toft in Rowston which Ulf and Siward his son and Richard son of Siward had held.¹

In his second annotation, that on Ralf son of Stephen, Round says: "When he married the Caux heiress is not known, but he is found in charge of Sherwood forest in 1177 (Pipe Roll 23 H. II, p. 58) and as this forestership was in the Caux family and was afterwards confirmed to his wife and her heirs, this may point to her having married him by 1177. Ralf died in or about 1204 and Maud then married Adam fitz-Peter, lord of Birkin, by whom she had a son and successor to her lands and to the forestership of Sherwood. She died 1223-4."

In fact, Maud married Adam first and had by him four sons and a daughter Juliana, who became a nun at Haverholme during the lifetime of her father in company with his niece, Maud.² The correct order of the marriages was stated by Dugdale. "This Maud first married to Adam Fitz-Peter, lord of Birkyn, whereupon her descendents assumed the surname of Birkyn and gave the lordship of Roustone to the Knights Templars. Moreover surviving Adam Fitz-Peter, she afterwards married to Ralf son of Stephen, and holding the manor of Winterbourne in dower from him, departed this life in 8 Henry III."³ "Thoroton,"⁴ before Round, reversed the order, and though Farrer thoroughly examined the evidence, printed a series of charters of Adam son of Peter, and traced his career to his death in 1184, his correction of Round has passed comparatively unnoticed, perhaps because it is in a series less frequently consulted than the Rotuli de Dominabus. The error has therefore been reiterated in some recent works, though apparently Farrer's view was accepted in some others.⁵

Adam, son of Peter, was alive in 1184 but his widow had remarried before the Rotulus was compiled in 1185.⁶ There is no trace in the Pipe Rolls of either year of any fine made by Ralf son of Stephen for marriage to this rich widow, an absence which may perhaps be accounted for by the king's peculiar favour to an able and trusted servant of nearly thirty years' standing. There were no children, or at least none that survived, of this marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Orwin, The Open Fields, p. 73, follow Round, however, and so does Professor R. R. Darlington, The Cartulary of Darley Abbey, 1945, vol. i, p. xxiii. While Tout, Chapters in the Administrative history of Medieval England, i, pp. 111-3, used Farrer's work in connection with Ralf son of Stephen, he does not comment on this point in his history.

Among the Haverholme charters is one by which Ralf son of Stephen confirmed the gifts to the Priory made by Robert de Caux nepos of Earl Ferrers.¹ Round thought Ralf died in or about 1204 but the exact date was the feast of St. James the apostle (25th July) 1202.² It is recorded only by the chronicler of Stanley Abbey, who from this year was copied almost verbatim by the Continuator of William of Newburgh. Stanley was a foundation of Henry II, Ralf was one of its benefactors³ and from the recording of his death there, it seems possible that it was his place of burial. In Michaelmas term 1202, Maud widow of Ralf son of Stephen came into the king's court and recognised that she held Winterbourne in Gloucestershire in dower of Richard Walensis, for her life at an annual rental of three marks and that after her death it should revert to Richard and his heirs.⁴ On 27th October 1215, the sheriff of Gloucestershire was ordered to give seisin to Richard Walensis of the land in Winterbourne which he had of the gift of Ralf son of Stephen and which he had granted to Maud de Caux for a rent which she had ceased to pay.⁵ On 14th December Philip de Albini received the land which had been Maud's in Winterbourne⁶ and which the king had given him but Richard Walensis was re-seised in 1217.⁷ After Maud's death the king, on 9th May 1225, took the homage of Richard of Gloucester as next heir to Ralf son of Stephen, for Winterbourne which Maud had held in dower and Richard gave the land to Richard Walensis and took his homage in the king's presence.⁸ The sheriff was ordered to give Richard Walensis seisin on his giving security for the payment of fifty marks. There appears to be no further evidence for this next heir and he does not seem to have succeeded to the land which Ralf son of Stephen held of Hubert son of Ralf in Derbyshire.

Godfrey de Aubigny evidently offered a thousand marks to marry Maud, but permission was only conditional on her assent which she apparently refused for no payment was made by him.⁹ The price of remaining a widow was the retention in the king's hands of Laxton, Shelford, Stoke and Gedling.¹⁰ John was staying at Laxton from 24th to 28th February, 1205¹¹ and he had laid in supplies of wine at Winterbourne, but sent instructions to Robert de Ruppell about moving this when he agreed to return the manor to Maud.¹ Brian de Insula administered the Nottinghamshire lands and was receiving £18 yearly out of them from 1208.²

In her widowhood Maud confirmed to Haverholme, the gifts of her father, grandfather and mother, for their souls' health and that of Ralf her husband and all her predecessors and successors.³ She also gave the nuns five bovates in Anwick and two in Ruskington which Suen held, as well as another bovat and three quarters in the same village, together with rights of taking reeds for thatching in the Anwick fen and fishing in the Anwick fisheries.⁴ She also confirmed to them half the church of Ruskington.⁵ Before 1218 she had made grants to Shelford Priory of land in Shelford⁶ and at some time before her death, to the Templars, of land in Rowston.⁷ She also granted a carucate and a toft of her demesne land in Laxton to Geoffrey of Suffolk, goldsmith of London.⁸

In 1217 she received back the custody of the forest of Nottingham and Derby.⁹ In 1220 some doubt had arisen as to her position and Philip Marc had written to Hubert de Burgh on the matter. An explicit reply was sent saying that although the king had the right of sending other servants to the forest if he wished, none the less Maud was to have her seisin in the forests and not to be molested.¹⁰ On 12th February 1221 she was ordered to let William, earl Warrenne have reasonable estover in her wood of Kirkby to repair his houses and close his hedges.¹¹ Later in the year the expenses of the king at Nottingham were to be paid out of her render for the forest and other money which the sheriff had collected.¹²

On 14th May 1224 the Justiciar directed the sheriff to take charge of the lands of Maud de Caux, deceased,¹³ and on 25th May John de Birkin her son made fine for three hundred marks to have her land and the custody of the forest.¹⁴

Maud his wife and their heirs.¹ The history of the forest can be traced through part of the twelfth century in the Pipe Rolls. In 1129-30 William Peveril accounted for the pleas of the forest amounting to £23. 6. 8. of which he had paid in only half.² At Michaelmas 1156 the sheriff accounted for one mark for the pleas of the forest of which he was quit.³ Robert de Caux made his first appearance in Michaelmas 1157 when he accounted for twenty marks of silver "pro ministerio foreste" which he had paid into the Chamber to Warin fitz Gerold.⁴ There is no reference to the annual payment in the following year and in 1159 payments were made to eight foresters and other officials.⁵ In 1165 the sheriff accounted for £20 "pro censu foreste"⁶ and in 1166 Robert again appeared paying the £20.⁷ In 1167 Reginald Ursel accounted on his behalf.⁸ For the next eight years Reginald de Lucy was in charge,⁹ in 1175-6 there was no render but a long list of amercements¹⁰ and in the following year Ralf son of Stephen,¹¹ who also administered the forest of Chippenham in Wiltshire,¹² began the long period of accounting which only ended with his death, though early in Richard's reign as a result of the count of Mortain's grant he was holding the hereditary office, not that of a king's servant only.

This grant¹³ gave to Ralf son of Stephen and Maud his wife all liberties and free customs which any ancestor of Maud ever had at any time in Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire completely and fully, namely the whole forestership of Nottingham and Derby and that all their lands within the bounds of the forest should be free of the regard and that they should have the right to have hounds for the hunting of the hare, fox, cat and squirrel throughout the forest. They were to have the amercements of those who hunted without their licence, the right to windfallen wood and to the loppings of trees, and certain rights of toll on salt passing through the forest. The chattels of a thief or a cutpurse taken in the forest should fall to the Caux but his body should be delivered to the king's justices. They might have a park wherein to hunt at Laxton and seventy acres of assart in Laxton and Gedling quit of the regard. All pleas of unlawed dogs were theirs unless such dogs were taken on the beast itself. The fine made for this comprehensive grant was sixty marks of silver, a charger and a palfrey.

As this was the first charter produced by Maud's heirs when claiming their rights it seems possible that it was the first grant in inheritance. Robert de Caux though he was forester may have had only a life grant or even office only during good pleasure. The reason for his replacement is not clear: it may have been due to his death, for the reference to him in the Pipe Roll of 1167 is the last found, but it may be noted that he had been heavily amerced and for this amercement Reginald de Lucy was still accounting until 1171.¹ It may be noted that Adam son of Peter, Maud's first husband never seems to have had any connection with the office though he was alive until 1184. It is possible that it was Ralf's appointment in 1176-7 that first brought him into touch with Maud de Caux in her Nottinghamshire estates and led later to his marriage with her and that it was this union of a trusted royal official to the daughter of a former forester with great estates in the county in which Sherwood lay that led to the grant of the office in perpetuity. The wording of the charter "to them and their heirs" was in sufficiently general terms for the succession to go to Maud's heirs by her first husband not to end through lack of heirs of Ralf and Maud. Nor was there any question of the mysterious "next heir" of Ralf entering into competition.

In spite of his very considerable estates in the right of his wife and his own property, Ralf during the reign of Richard fell into arrears at the Exchequer. In 1194 he did not pay the forest farm² at all, in 1195 only £10 was accounted for,³ in 1197 he owed £10 for 1195 and £20 for each of the years 1194, 1196 and 1197.⁴ Nothing was paid in and he had remission of £60 by writ of the archbishop. In the following year the remaining £10 of the debt was pardoned.⁵

RALF SON OF STEPHEN THE KING'S CHAMBERLAIN

The origin of Ralf son of Stephen the chamberlain of Henry II remains obscure.⁶ He had two brothers Eustace and William, both of whom were in the king's service.⁷ Eustace was also a chamberlain but as Sir Frank Stenton says "for a man who held

⁴ P.R. 9 R. I, p. 146.

⁵ P.R. 10 R. I, p. 114.

⁷ Eustace was sheriff of Cornwall in 1174 and 1177, P.R.O. Lists and Indexes, x, p. 21. William accounted for Ralf in Gloucestershire in 1171 and himself became sheriff in 1175, ibid. p. 49.

such a position remarkably little is known about him. He rarely witnesses the king's writs and in the records of his time he is completely overshadowed by his brother and fellow chamberlain Ralf fitz Stephen "...¹ Ralf's next heir (propinquior heres) only mentioned when Mand de Caux died, was Richard of Gloucester about whom there is no further information.² He also had a niece Idonea to whom he gave as her portion on her marriage with William son of Rannulf, the knight's fee in Blackwell, Derbyshire, which he held of Robert son of Rannulf the bridegroom's brother,³ members of a family who between them held the shrievalty of Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire for many years.⁴ Idonea of Blackwell made gifts to Welbeck Abbey from this land to provide an obit for herself and her husband but made no reference therein to her uncle Ralf who had so generously provided for her.⁵ She and her husband were buried at Welbeck but the latter was also commemorated at Beauchief Abbey which had been founded by his brother Robert.⁶

Ralf was also a tenant of Hubert son of Ralf in Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire and from this fee made several grants to Darley Abbey. This land seems so completely to have passed from him that Professor Darlington says he had no heir, and there seems to be no evidence that the Richard of Gloucester who was the heir to Winterbourne made any claim in Derbyshire, though since the latter was an undertenancy there would be less likelihood of its leaving traces in the royal records.⁷ There is nothing so far to suggest that Maud de Caux either had or claimed dower there.

It seems unlikely that Ralf had not been married before his alliance with Maud de Caux but there is no evidence at present for any earlier wife. Professor Darlington says "Ralf's first wife appears to have been Emma viscountess of Rouen".⁸ But Delisle refused to identify Ralf son of Stephen the king's chamberlain with the man of this name who was Emma's husband.⁹ Professor Tout commenting on Delisle is non-committal and says, "Emma must have been a first wife, if the two Ralfs are not different persons".¹ The phraseology of the charter on which the discussion rests (no. 606) indicates that Ralf husband of Emma was dead by 1182 at the latest, and probably by 1180. It speaks of the heirs of Ralf, the house which was of Ralf and of Emma, who was the wife of Ralf and had claims of dower in the property conveyed. The marriage of the king's chamberlain with Emma therefore seems to be impossible.

The administrative achievements of Ralf have been recounted and praised by Professor Tout.² He was continuously in the service of Henry II from at least 1157 until the latter's death, but does not seem to have acted in the same capacity for Richard I. He had early in the reign of Henry been rewarded with the manor of Winterbourne, worth £22 yearly and Wapley and Cudlington worth £8 yearly.³ Both these estates were in Gloucestershire and held in chief and from them he made grants to Stanley Abbey in Wiltshire.⁴ A charter concerning this property was issued to him at Messina on 3rd April 1191⁵ as well as one in favour of Stanley,⁶ which suggests that he was with Richard on the Crusade, though there is at present no further evidence of this.

His appointment to the charge of Sherwood forest may, by bringing him into contact with the estates of the Caux family, have led to his acquisition of land in Rowston and Ruskington of their fee. By a final concord levied with the Templars on 12th November 1177⁷ he acquired a carucate in Rowston which Geoffrey de Caux had given to Aubrey de Lisurs, his wife, in dower and half a carucate in the same vill, two bovates which Jocelin the clerk held and all the land which was of Robert the brother of Geoffrey de Caux in Rowston and two bovates which Richard son of Gregory held and one toft. In Ruskington he obtained all the tenement which the father and mother of Geoffrey de Caux had held. In return Ralf quitclaimed whatever right he had in the church of Rowston and one bovat and one toft. The Templars resigned to Ralf in the king's court all the charters they had had from Geoffrey concerning these tenements and the charters of Robert de Caux, Geoffrey's lord confirming it. Miss Lees⁸ thought that in levying this fine Ralf was acting for the Caux family but the wording shows that this cannot have been so: Ralf is not described as the attorney of the Caux, he is clearly the principal party; moreover the quitclaim is to Ralf and his heirs, with no mention of any one else.

It seems that he was probably acquiring properties in different parts of the country and this is a relatively modest one. In the survey of 1185 the only revenue from Rowston received by the Templars was three marks annually from master Peter of Tilney of the church of Rowston which they had had of the gift of Robert de Caux.¹ In 1242 however they possessed there twelve carucates less five bovates of the new feoffment of Maud de Caux² and the survey of 1434 says she gave them the vill of Rowston and the advowson.³

In 1166 a Ralf son of Stephen was holding one knight's fee of the bishop of Exeter⁴ and half a knight's fee of the new feoffment of the Honour of Totnes.⁵

In Richard's reign apart from a payment of £4. 5. 6. by tale for keeping the castle of Guildford,⁶ the only references to him are as a landowner paying scutage of fining in connection with military service.⁷ His long period of public service virtually ended with the death of Henry II.

IV

RALF SON OF STEPHEN OF HOLLAND

The explicit evidence of Maud's widowhood in 1202 makes impossible Farrer's identification of Ralf son of Stephen the chamberlain with Ralf son of Stephen of Holland who supported the barons in the wars of 1216 and whose heir paid relief in 1222.⁸ This man in 1212 was tenant of one twelfth of a fee in Stenning in Swineshead parish, one eleventh of a fee in Skirbeck and one fourteenth of a fee in Wyberton, all held of the Honour of Richmond.⁹ He seems to have been the grandson of Ralf of Holland to whom Conan the archdeacon gave "Estevening in Hoilandia in fee and inheritance to hold as the barons of the count (of Brittany) best held" at a date not later than 1146.¹⁰ In this he was probably succeeded by Stephen of Holland who, before 1170 gave to Bardney Abbey a messuage in Swineshead on the river bank between the fee of the monks of Crowland and that of the earls of Richmond for the brothers of Bardney celebrating solemnly—that is to say in copes—the anniversary of his father's death, as they do for the anniversary of Walter de Gant.¹¹ This was apparently the land in Holland given by Stephen of Holland and confirmed by the Pope in 1178.¹ In a later grant of this land by William abbot of Bardney, Stephen is referred to as a knight (miles quondam de Hoyland).² Stephen apparently also made a grant to Sempringham Priory of land in Wyberton which he had freed from forinsec service due to him for the twenty-eighth part of a knight's fee. This gift Ralf his son confirmed with an addition of ten acres of arable land in Wyberton with one of his daughters who became a nun at Sempringham, the gift being made for the souls of his father and mother and his son Thomas and for the sustenance of two chaplains in the chapel of St. Thomas the Martyr in the marsh of Holland.³

Ralf's sons Ralf, Stephen and Roger witness this charter and a confirmation by him to Bardney is witnessed by John his son.⁴ His wife's name was Lecia and she witnessed with him a gift by Alexandria daughter of Ralf Bernard, widow of Robert of Harrowby, to Stixwold 1172-80.⁵ Ralf was with the Earl of Richmond at Guingamp circa 1160-8 where he witnessed Conan's gift of land in Gayton to Kirkstead.⁶ Ralf was himself a benefactor to that house to which he gave a toft, marsh and a bovate of twenty acres in Snelland.⁷ This was confirmed by Stephen the chamberlain of Wickenby at Easter 1187.⁸ Ralf son of Ralf also confirmed it and his charter was witnessed by his brothers Roger and Stephen.⁹ It is probable that this bovate included the selions of the gift of Ralf son of Stephen referred to as contiguous to the gifts of Geoffrey son of Bertram and Helto of Snelland, in Snelland.¹⁰

In Richard's reign Ralf son of Stephen of Holland sought four carucates and two bovates in Horbling by writ of right in the court of the Count of Brittany against Simon of Horbling who placed himself on the Grand Assize but there is no evidence to show that he won his suit.¹¹

Both Ralf son of Stephen and Ralf his son had been involved with the barons and in 1216 had letters of protection to go to treat with the king.¹² In 1222 Ralf son and heir of Ralf son of Stephen gave five marks relief for half a fee in Swineshead.¹³ In 1212 he was already holding five marcatas of land in West Ashby of Henry Nevill, who had lands in Ashby and Toynton of King John's gift.¹⁴ In 1242 he held in chief, as of the Honour of Richmond, half a fee and the eleventh part of a fee in Bicker, Wigtoft, Wyberton and

Quadring and owed scutage, relief and castle guard.¹ He also held of the Earl of Richmond half a carucate in Wyberton for which he gave four shillings yearly for all services.²

In 1235-6 he was a collector with Hugh of Wigtoft of the aid in Holland and on 12th Nov. 1236 paid in £4. 16. 8d. of the scutage of the knights of Holland.³ He was later coroner and in the Hundred Rolls statements were made as to the bribes he had taken, though he had then been dead seven years and more.⁴ He was in fact buried at Swineshead Abbey⁵ in 1262 and was succeeded by his son John.⁶ The family remained seated at Stenning until the seventeenth century and in 1563 George Holland, brother of the then holder of the estate, compiled a pedigree which was accepted by Blomefield⁷ and, from the latter's work, by Pishey Thompson in his History of Boston.⁸ Unfortunately, anxious to glorify his family as much as possible George Holland connected them with the Hollands of Up-Holland in Lancashire and in order to fit in the extra members of the line thus created, pushed Stephen back to the reign of Edward the Confessor and gave him a fictitious ancestor Sir Otho de Holland who "lived considerably before the Conquest". Thompson gives the seventeenth century holders of the manor of Stenning, which in 1689 belonged to Thomas Holland of Silk Willoughby who in 1691 conveyed it to George Fairfax of Newton Kyme, Yorkshire, in whose family it remained until 1841 when it was conveyed to Thomas Cooper of Swineshead.⁹

THE FAMILY OF CHAMBERLAIN OF WICKENBY AND MARSTON

Farrer's further identification of Stephen father of Ralf the chamberlain of Henry II with Stephen son of Herbert the chamberlain, holder of the Chamberlain's fee in Wharram, Acklam and Leavening in Yorkshire¹⁰ had already been disproved before the second volume of his Charters appeared and he refers in the introduction to a communication received on this matter from Mr. W. H. B. Bird.¹¹ Evidence was later printed by Mr. Bird showing conclusively that this Stephen was the son of Herbert the chamberlain of the king of Scots.¹² He styles himself variously "filius Hereberti camerarii regis Scocie"¹³ or "Stephanus camerarius de Wikingesbi"¹ the latter being an estate he held in Lincolnshire, inherited together with those of Marston and elsewhere from his mother Milisent, grand-daughter of Osbert the sheriff of Lincolnshire and Yorkshire, and niece and heiress of William Turniant and Richard of Lincoln, Osbert's sons. In these lands he was succeeded c. 1194-5 by his son Robert,² who in his turn was succeeded by his son Henry.³

No member of this family made any claim to the estate of Ralf son of Stephen the king's chamberlain and it seems that it is similarity of Christian name and of office which has led to too ready identification of both individuals and families. It may be noted that to add to possibilities of confusion, Ralf son of Stephen of Holland held of Stephen the chamberlain of Wickenby⁴ and himself had two nepotes Stephen and Herbert.⁵

Tout, when discussing the origins of Ralf son of Stephen the king's chamberlain, evidently did not regard Stephen the holder of the Chamberlain's fee in Yorkshire as identical with the Stephen the chamberlain of the Lincolnshire section of the Pipe Rolls of Henry II's⁶ reign but there is no doubt that they are the same man, though whether Stephen the chamberlain of the Pipe Rolls of 3 Henry II is the same, I would hesitate to affirm.
